HITLER, IL DUCE DRAFT HARSH PACT FOR FRANCE

By the Associated Press

MUNICH, Germany, June 18—Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini sat down today in Munich—the old Bavarian city where so much of the world's history has been made in recent years—to dictate to France the terms upon which she will be allowed to have peace.

Hitler arrived first, entering the city with all the pomp of a present-day Napoleon while the church bells rang and the people cried out their "Heils."

Mussolini, the number 2 partner in an axis which thus far has not lost a major engagement in this war, arrived just three hours later—at 3 p. m. (9 a. m., E. D. T.).

They met—Hitler and Mussolini—In an atmosphere which suggested that the bargain might be a hard one for France. For, while nothing was said officially, here and there was every prospect that the policy of silence would go on for hours, authorized German sources had thus declared:

"France must understandd clearly that the vanquished cannot make demands!."

Meet in Hitler's Study

It seemed likely that Munich—as it was on another occasion now more than a year ago when Britain and France decided not to fight for Czechoslovakia—would be only a place for decision, and that what was done might be announced not here but in Berlin and Rome.

Probable Peace Terms

MUNICH, June 18—There are few indications here as to the price Hitler will demand of France—for the German empire, but Italy's proposed slice of the spoils has been outlined in detail.

Among the Italian war objectives listed are Nice and Savoy in France, both former Italian possessions; Corsica, French island off western Italy; Tunisia, French colony in North Africa; and Jibuti, French-held port which is the terminus of the only railroad running to Italian-occupied Ethiopia.

Hitler, is is expected, will draft harsh terms, to include Alsace-Lorraine and numerous colonies with the probability that he will demand the entire French fleet.

Total demobilization of the French army, as was required in Norway, Belgium and Holland, appeared to be a likely condition.

The shouting crowds along the streets were witnessing then a virtual repetition of another Munich conference—one of September, 1938, except that this time it was France, and not Czechoslovakia, whose fate was at stake.

In the Fuehrerhaus—the Fuehrer's building of ornate stone—Hitler and Mussolini began their discussion late in the day, sitting down in Hitler's study.

Hitler's Biggest Moment

This was perhaps the moment of greatest triumph in Hitler's career as Germany's leader. There were lines in his face—indications of the strain he has been under during the swift and momentous campaign of the west.

But he smiled—the smile of a conqueror—and he saluted almost continuously, standing in his car as it moved slowly past cheering throngs to his home.

Motners held their children above their heads to let the youngest generation see the Fuehrer.

Hundreds of church bells rang as the conquering Fuehrer reached this Bavarian city, historic in the annals of national Socialism and modern Germany.

And at the moment of the meeting of the Axis dictators German offiicaldom expressed indignation over the broadcast of French Foreign Minister Paul Baudouin for his assertion that France will continue to fight unless she obtains the sort of peace she wants.

Nazi spokesmen bitterly condemned this address and pointed to "blatant discrepancies" between his attitude and that of 84-year-old Marshal Petain, who approached Hitler as "soldier to soldier" to ask the terms of peace.

Dictators Meet to Decide Fate of Surrendered France

ROUNDUP OF WAR TODAY

By the Associated Press

Adolf Hitler rode through "Heil, Hitler!" cheering crowds in ancient Munich today—a triumphant Fuehrer whose conquests already challenge the exploits of Alexander the Great and Napoleon—to meet his axis partner, Benito Mussolini, and dictate a heralded "unconditional surrender" offer of peace to France.

While the axis leaders met, the Nazi high command reported sweeping successes by German armies in France and the bombing of a fleet of Allied transports and other ships in the Loire river estuary—likely point of embarkation for the withdrawal of British troops from France.

The high command said more than 170,000 tons were destroyed or severely damaged in "the biggest air raid effect" of the war.

DEMAND HARSH TERMS

Still smashing forward, Hitler's conquering armies captured Metz, Dijon, Belfort fortress and the French armament center of Le Creusot, the high command announced.

As France still fought with desperate fury and rallied 350,000 more troops to a new defense line near the junction of the Saone and Doubs rivers, north of Chalons-sur-Saone, the German press clamored for harsh terms to avenge the 21-year-old "humiliation" of the Versailles treaty.

Terms of the axis-dictated peace requested by France were not expected to be disclosed until after France's new soldier-premier, the aged Marshal Petain, has accepted or rejected them.

BRITAIN GETS FLEET?

It was made emphatically clear that France, wounded though she may be, stood ready to fight on unless granted an "honorable peace."

Thus, Foreign Minister Paul Baudoin declared.

"If we are given the choice between resistance and honor, the French army and the whole French people know what to do"

France's powerful fleet, second only to Britain's among European navies, was reported in Berlin as probably having been already "spirited off" by the British to prevent it from falling into the hands of Germany.

The fleet has been under British command since the start of the war.

French sources in London said today that they considered it "probable" that Gen. Albert Nogues, commanding France's north African army, and Gen. Mittelhauser, commanding the French army in the Near East, had decided to continue fighting.

REPORTS UNCONFIRMED

These sources said they had no direct communication with the Bordeaux government and therefore were unable to confirm or deny reports carried by the authoritative French Havas agency that French leaders had decided to continue the war, with the government established in England and the air force and navy operating from English bases.

Mittelhauser's command, based in Syria, has been estimated at more than 200,000 men. No estimates have been available on Nogue's command.—Editor's Note.

350,000 SLIP TRAP

Reports from Switzerland said the French had succeeded in withdrawing another 50,000 troops from the Alsace-Lorraine "pocket," bringing to 350,000 the total snatched from the Nazi trap.

Great Britain stoutly proclaimed her own continued resistance to the foe and disclosed she had offered to unite with France as one nation in the last gloomy hours before France chose a bitter request for peace.

The Bordeaux correspondent of the London Daily Mail reported today the French Mediterranean fleet, under orders of Admiral Jean Darlan, had inflicted heavy losses on the Italian navy in a major engagement, but the time of the battle was not clear.

Possible fate of France's Western Hemisphere possessions, islands in the Atlantic and West Indies and French Guiana in South America, was highlighted by the United States Senate's adoption of a resolution that this country would not acquiesce in any transfer of Western Hemisphere possessions from one non-American nation to another.

The House was expected to vote on the resolution today.

Papal Aide Named Peace Intermediary

BORDEAUX, France, June 18—Msgr. Valerio Valeri, Papal nuncio to France, will act as intermediary in peace negotiations between the French and Italian governments, the French radio announced today.

"We shall, therefore, soon know our position," the broadcaster said in announcing selection of Msgr. Valeri.

"In the meantime, we must wait—broken-hearted, let us repeat, but with calm and coolness.

"France will never accept dishonorable conditions, abandon the spiritual liberties of our people or barter the soul of France.

"Whatever the sufferings may be of the home front, we must think first and always of the superhuman struggle carried on by our soldiers for our honor and our flag."

The French cabinet assembled under Premier Marshal Petain, presumably to await word of the Italo-German peace conditions.

Meanwhile, the German legions were plunging still deeper into France on virtually all fronts, but the French army still resisted, especialy at Orleans, 70 miles south of Paris, and in the region of La Sharite Sur Loire, a full 120 miles southeast of the capital.

The Germans reported they have taken Orleans. — Editor's Note.

At both of these places, which are on the Loire river, fighting was "violent," according to last night's communique of the French high command.

"At all points of contact," said the communique, "our troops still are fighting with the same bravery for the honor of the flag."

Later the French radio said that the navy was "intact" and the air force "intact and powerful."

Nevertheless, French military spokesmen acknowledged that the end was at hand—that the front was disorganized and that the Germans had split the French forces into four ribbons.

Italy Loses 230,000 Tons in Shipping

LONDON, June 18 (INS)—British merchant shipping tonnage lost during the week ending June 9 amounted to 45,193 tons, it was announced officially today.

German mercantile losses up to June 16 were announced at 837,000 tons, and Italy's losses since her entry into the war up to the same date were placed at 230,000 tons

CHURCHILL WARNS U. S. IS DOOMED IF BRITAIN LOSES

LONDON, June 18 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared that the French would "be casting away their future" unless they continued the war, but he admitted "the battle of France is over" and the battle of Britain is about to begin."

"If we lose it, the whole world, including the United States of America, will sink into the abyss of a new dark age," he told the House of Commons.

The prime minister declared Britain could not relieve France of her "treaty obligations" to continue the war.

MAY DROWN INVADERS

He said, in fact, "it is not yet certain that military resistance by France will come to an end"—although he did not state in what form that resistance might continue.

However, he told the Commons and people of his nation that Britain, with over 1,250,000 of her own men under arms, dominions' armies on her soil and a navy, was prepared to meet invasion.

The navy, he said, could not pretend to prevent raids by 5000 or 10,000 men on a dark night or a foggy morning, but he predicted with confidence that these invaders might well be "drowned in the sea or blown to pieces while trying to land."

But Churchill let the nation know in stark language what he felt would happen if the "battle of Britain" were lost.

PERVERTED SCIENCE PERIL

The new "dark age" which would come, he said, would be "made more sinister and perhaps more prolonged by the lights of a perverted science."

"Upon this battle," he cried, "depends the survival of Christian civilization. Hitler knows he will have to break us in this island or lose the war."

The one great question, he said, was: "Can we break Hitler's air weapon?"

He added, however, that "no invasion on a scale beyond the capacity of our air forces to crush immediately is likely to take place from the air until our air force has been definitely overpowered."

The prime minister was forthright in his confident prediction that Britain could meet invasion, even by matching secret methods which Hitler may have evolved.

HITLER HASN'T SHIPS

He told his listeners to remember that from 200 to 250 ships would be needed to carry "seven five divisions" of Germans across the channel.

Declaring "the advantage of the defenders will be very great," he said Britain hoped to improve on the ratio of three or four German planes downed for every British plane lost which, he said, was established over Dunkirk, at the end of the battle of Flanders.

He said seven-eighths of the British troops sent to France, or 350,000 out of 400,000 men, now are back in England, "where we now have under arms over 1,250,000 men."

Behind these stand half a million local defense volunteers, he said.

"We also have dominion armies here," Churchill added.

Canadians landed in France have been safely withdrawn.

In the final battle for France, now lost, Churchill asserted there were only three British divisions, because of the time it took to replace supplies and equipment lost in the disaster of Flanders.

"We sent every man we could to France as fast as we could re-equip and transport their formations," he said.

Without the concentration of men and materials now in England, Churchill explained, "we cannot face what lies before us."

WHERE FRENCH FAILED

Churchill said the entire British expeditionary force in France was thrown out of action when the French high comand failed to withdraw the northern France armies from Belgium at the moment they knew the French front was broken at edan and on the Meuse river.

GERMANS DEMAND REVENGE ON FRANCE IN PEACE PACT

BERLIN, June 18 (AP)—The eyes of Europe turned today toward Munich, where Hitler and Mussolini began to write history and change the geography of the continent.

To Germans the fateful meeting promised to make amends for the happenings of three centuries ago, when in 1648, through the peace of Westphalia, Germany was split into fragments not rejoined until the time of Bismarck.

Authorized sources, taking note of the French foreign minister's speech, its placating tone and suggestion that France and Germany be friends, said:

"France must understand clearly that the vanquished cannot make demands."

ALLIED TRANSPORTS SUNK

At the same time the German high command reported more than 170,000 tons of Allied transports and numerous smaller war and merchant ships had been severely damaged or destroyed by German planes in the estuary of the River Loire, "the biggest air raid effect" yet obtained in the war.

The communique listed among the ships hit—"a number of which were loaded" — two transports of 30,000 tons each, two transports of 25,000 tons each, one transport of 20,000 tons and four transports of more than 10,000 tons each.

The Loire estuary would be a logical place for embarkation of the British expeditionary force which has been fighting with the French along the Loire front.—Editor's note.

The Berlin press reflected the official German attitude in large headlines.

HITLER'S PAPER BITTER

Hitler's own newspaper, the Volkischer Beobachter, declared bitterly:

"We remember with the greatest clarity the gray hours of the morning of Nov. 11, 1918, when the same Weygand who today is the French generalissimo dictated to an heroic foe which lost honorably conditions of an armistice

Father Is Accused Of Beating Infant

He beat his eight-months-old baby son, his namesake, so badly about the face and head the baby had to be taken to Boston City Hospital by police.

That was the charge lodged against Robert Fernand, 44, of Tremont st., South End, by officers today.

A warrant was issued in municipal court against Fernand, charging him with assault and battery yesterday on Robert Fernand, Jr.

Mrs. Mary Carlson, landlady of the house in which Fernand lives, said she heard the baby crying as if it were being beaten several times before she called police.

Appearing in the lineup at Boston police headquarters today, Fernand said he drank a great deal, and that he couldn't remember what had happened yesterday.

Officers said he would probably be in court for trial tomorrow.

Mrs. Fernand is already in city hospital, taken there May 15 suffering from abdominal trouble.

Several months ago little Robert, still being treated for cuts and bruises all about the face and head, fell from a highchair in his home, according to a police report.

At that time the baby also was taken to city hospital, suffering a fractured skull.

Jobless Dad Locks Son, 9, In Stocks

NEW ORLEANS, June 18 (AP)—Police Sergt. Charles S. Boudreaux said today nine-year-old Isidore Morgavi had been found in his parents' French Quarter home with his legs locked in a set of home-made stocks.

Boudreaux said the boy's mother told officers his father, 34-year-old Frank Morgavi, unemployed, had placed the boy there eight and a half hours before because Isidore was "incorrigible."

The father had left home when police arrived following complaint of a neighbor.

The police sergeant said the stocks, made of timber three inches thick and weighing about 30 pounds, were held together by a large padlock. The boy was sitting on a stool with his legs in the stocks, which rested on tin cans. His hands were free.

Boudreaux said the case would be referred to Judge John Nix in juvenile court. Isidore was taken to the Municipal Boys' Home after being released.

SPENCER ON TRIAL IN DOCTOR KILLING

While his youthful wife wept in the courtroom, 23-year-old Charles E. Spencer went on trial for his life today in Suffolk Superior Court.

Spencer, an unemployed truck driver and piano mover living at East Springfield st., South End, faces six indictments, one of which charges him with the first degree murder of Dr. Bernard Glickman of Dorchester, Washington st., optometrist.

According to police Spencer, who allegedly confessed to using marihuana and habitually using alcohol to excess, entered Dr. Glickman's office the afternoon of last Feb. 21 for an eye examination.

After a few minutes a single shot was heard and Spencer ran out of the room, brandishing a revolver.

Dr. Glickman, mortally wounded but still conscious, told police the shooting was an accident.

Police prepared a trap for Spencer at his home, but when he walked into it he attempted to shoot it out with police officers, wounding Sergt. James L. Culleton through the jaw and standing off 75 policemen for almost half an hour before he was shot through the chest.

Spencer has a police record dating back to 1932.

Other indictments on which he is charged before Judge Lewis Goldberg and the jury that is being impanelled include four of assault with intent to murder Sergt. Culleton and Officers Maurice Breen and John J. Bray, and a neighbor, Rudolph Daum. One charges carrying a revolver illegally.

Coakley Back On Firing Line After Illness

Daniel H. Coakley, lone but fiery Democratic member of the Governor's Council, will attend his first meeting of the council tomorrow after an absence of eight weeks.

Councillor Coakley has been ill during that period at his summer home at Buzzards Bay.

Those close to him said today that one of principal objectives in coming up to Boston this week is to inquire into the retirement of the veteran state budget commissioner, Carl Raymond.

Raymond was retired several weeks ago and has since been replaced by Charles W. Greenough, a neighbor of Gov. Saltonstall in Dover, who had been second assistant commissioner in the health department.

Coakley, it is understood, intends also to inquire into several other appointments made and confirmed during his absence.

Arlen, Called Love Thief, Takes Beating

HOLLYWOOD, June 18—Richard Arlen, good-looking film star, nursed a black eye, a bruised jaw and a sprained back here today, while his attacker was held on charges of suspicion of extortion.

RICHARD ARLEN
Accused as Love Thief

The Hollywood actor was severely beaten before a throng of notables at the Wilshire Country Club golf course by William Tate, 30, of Hollywood, who accused him of stealing Mrs. Tate's love.

Tate punched fast and furiously until he was pulled off by Olin Dutra, golf professional, and George Doyle, Arlen's caddy.

The alleged attacker was arrested at once, when Arlen told police that Tate had kidnaped him 10 weeks ago and later came to his home and threatened him with a beating unless he turned over $1000.

GOLFERS WATCH

Dozens of golfers, including Singer-Actor Bing Crosby, Arlen's golf partner, saw the attack.

Tate told police he had been after Arlen because "he broke up my home and got my wife so she wouldn't even look at me."

Arlen denied this, saying "I don't even know his wife."

Tate asserted his wife met Arlen at a party which Arlen and Walter Hagen, golf professional, gave at a Long Beach hotel last winter.

"Ever since that time, my wife has had nothing to do with me."

Court records showed that Tate's wife, Evelyn, has sued him twice in the past year for divorce. The first suit was dismissed Aug. 1, four days after filing, but the second, filed the next day, is still pending.

Her complaint charges cruelty, asserting Tate once pushed her under an icy shower.

In booking at the police station, Tate gave for his occupation only the word "employed."

Arlen received a bruised jaw, a cut on his forehead and a back sprain, he said. He continued his golf game.

Arlen told officers that when he stepped from an airplane at Metropolitan Airport 10 weeks ago Tate pulled a pistol, forced him into an automobile and held him prisoner for more than an hour, "accusing me of alienating his wife's affections and demanding $1000 so he could get out of town."

REFUSED TO PAY

"Naturally, I refused to pay him anything, for I was innocent. To avoid trouble, I put James (former Detective Lieutenant Frank James, his bodyguard) to work on the case instead of reporting to police.

"He later came to my home and threatened me with a club. I have tried repeatedly to convince him he is all wrong about me, but he wouldn't take my word for it and kept making demands for money."

Arlen has been separated for two years from Actress Jobyna Ralston. They have a seven-year-old son, Richard, Jr.

Stock Recovery Slows to Crawl

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—Stock market recovery tendencies centered on steels, rails and rubbers in today's session.

Dealings, quiet at the opening, picked up for a brief interval later, then slackened to a bare crawl. Early gains running to $2 a share or more points were reduced near mid-day.

Traders, while generally bullish, inclined to step lightly, brokers said, pending details of the peace negotiations.

Among favored shares were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Chrysler, American Telephone, American Smelting, Union Carbide, U. S. Rubber, Great Northern, Santa Fe, Eastman Kodak, Loft and Goodrich.

Selective improvement was registered in the bond department. Commodities were mixed. "Free" sterling again slipped lower in terms of the dollar.

State Cops Rush Sandwich Ban

If Hans Dixon of West Brookfield had a bad stomach ache today after lunch, it wasn't the fault of state police, who went a-hurrying and a-scurrying after him in Southboro.

Troopers were called on the telephone today by Mrs. Dixon, who asked that Hanse be found post-haste and advised not to eat his lunch "somewhere" on the Boston water supply system project in Southboro.

After Hans left the house this morning, Mrs. Dixon discovered a can of insect powder on the table where the lunch had been put up. She feared, she said, that she might have mistaken the can for the pepper can and used it on his sandwiches.

Folkins went on trial charged with shooting the victim in mistake for an animal, an unusual charge which has been on the New Hampshire statute books but two years.

The cabby's hopes of a neat profit at the end of the trip were crushed, however, when he reached the practically deserted Morton st. district, near the Boston State Oospital.

The passenger produced a revolver, took $17 and a watch from West and escaped.

Dewey Raps Deal On Arrival in Hub

Stinging jibes at the Democratic administration in Washington were administered today by Dist.-Atty. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, candidate for the Republican nomination for President, upon his arrival in Boston.

One of the first to greet Dewey was Governor Saltonstall, who, on last Friday night, introduced Wendell Willkie, Republican dark-horse candidate, at a rally in Mechanics building.

Governor Saltonstall arrived at Hotel Statler for an one-hour conference with Dewey immediately after his arrival and enigmatically told the New York he had been elected as an unpledged delegate to the Philadelphia convention starting June 24.

As the Governor left for the conference he was asked if he had told Dewey he would support him for the nomination. He replied:

"I told Mr. Dewey I was elected as an unpleged delegate and that I shall go to the convention as an unpleged delegate."

Obviously pleased with his reception in Vermont, Dewey was escorted from the North Station to the Hotel Statler by a delegation of leading Republicans headed by John S. Nolan, secretary of the Massachusetts Republican Club.

CHIDES DEAL ON TAXES

Following his conference with local leaders, Dewey told a large press gathering that it was time the Administration did something definite about taxes to pay for the cost of rearmament.

"The cost of rearmament must come from taxes of all kinds," the youthful New York prosecutor said, "and President Roosevelt in none of his three speeches on the subject has said anything about taxation."

On the matter of federal administration, Dewey called for:

"A complete house-cleaning and the installing of nine new cabinet members. I exclude Mr. Hull, as you notice. I have great respect for Mr. Hull."

As for participation in the war, Dewey emphatically reiterated his stand against it and pointed out the country's military position was so poor it could not do anything.

WAR ON BUSINESS

Deploring anti-business policies of the administration Dewey said:

"The war on business should be called off. And the only way the President can prvoe it has been called off is to fire the men who wage it. That is one half the cabinet and all the palace guard!"

Asked who composed the palace guard Dewey replied that everyone knows Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins and Secretary of Labor Madame Perkins are the heart of it.

Calling for action on defense plans, Dewey said a civilian home defense board should be set up without delay. The board, he added, should have powers of its own steaming from an act of congress.

Only in this way the candidate for the Republican nomination contended can the board be freed from the danger of being subject to the whims of President Roosevelt.

Following his conferences and a luncheon meeting with Massachusetts Republican leaders, Dewey left for Providence where he will deliver a speech tonight.

He will wind up his campaign in New York Friday night with an address over a nation-wide radio hook-up.

Improper Speech of Dad, 89, Cited in Will Case

Testimony that his father made improper remarks concerning young girls was included in testimony as trial resumed today in an attempt of Channing T. Furnald, former Quincy welfare commissioner, to break the will of his father, Thomas E. Furnald.

The elder Furnald, retired grocer and 89 years when he died last December, left his $35,000 estate to his third wife, Ruth B. Furnald, 40 years his junior.

John B. Bass, superintendent of a Quincy estate, testified he had known Furnald, Sr., for 40 years and that in recent years he quite often had heard him say "immoral things" about young girls passing in the street.

Mrs. Ellen L. Wareham, a former domestic in the Furnald home, said she often had seen her employer walking along the street picking up bits of paper and stuffing them in his pockets.

COUNTESS HAUGWITZ REVENTLOW, FORMER BARBARA HUTTON

Her $100,000 Gift to Red Cross Tops Donations

BABS HUTTON GIVES RED CROSS $100,000

WASHINGTON, June 18 (INS)—With a check for $100,000, Countess Barbara Haugwitz-Reventlow, Woolworth heiress, today became the largest single contributor to the American Red Cross war relief fund as it soared past the $12,000,000 mark.

Her gift, received at national headquarters today along with a brief note of sympathy, equalled the $100,000 donation made earlier in the drive by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., but she had previously given $10,000 to the New York Chapter.

In the letter to National Chairman Norman H. Davis, from her Beverly Hills, Cal., home, the former "Babs" Hutton wrote:

"Surely there is no human being alive today who can fail to be stricken with grief and shocked to the very depths of their being by the appalling suffering and horror that exists in Europe today—

"I, and I am certain so many others, send you our contributions with the fervent prayer that they will be of some help to all of those brave men, women and children for whom our hearts are so heavy."

Finances of the countess, who inherited upward of $40,000,000 as her share of the Five and Ten Cent Store fortune, are reported to have been considerably tangled by the German invasion of Denmark, for which country she renounced her United States citizenship when marrying Count Haugwitz-Reventlow. She was awaiting her final decree of divorce at the time of its conquest.

Another letter in the day's mail at the Red Cross came from France's new Premier, Marshal Petain. Although written May 24, the letter was full of foreboding, and stated:

"I have never forgotten the great service rendered by the American Red Cross during the war of 1914, 1918.

"Now, moved by the misfortune which has fallen on us, the Red Cross intends to take up the same task again. You plan once more to try and spare the sufferings imposed on us, or at least to make them less cruel . . .

"Thanks to Germany, the world is menaced with a great cataclysm.

"—If the German will to destruction is not broken, in a few years or even months, Europe will be nothing but a mass of ruins."

HAVERHILL TRIO BEGIN SENTENCES

HAVERHILL, June 18—A Haverhill city official began a five-year State Prison sentence and two others started serving house of correction terms of 2½ years today, following their conviction on morals charges involving Mary G. Walker, 15-year-old high school student.

The sentences were passed by Judge Allan G. Buttrick who had conducted the two-week trial without a jury. He made no comment.

Street Supt. Elmore H. Prescott was given the five-year sentence. It was charged that he attacked the girl in a Haverhill quarry.

Alderman George F. Ramsey and Alfred C. Richardson, a street department employe, were sentenced to the House of Correction. It was charged they both became involved with the Walker girl following the quarry episode.

The trio had pleaded not guilty and waived a jury trial when their case was called for trial June 3.

Widow Lacks $500 Liquor Fine, Gets Jail

LOWELL, June 18—Unable to pay a $500 fine, Mrs. Kate Baron, 50, of West Fourth st., described as a persistent violator of liquor laws, has been committed to East Cambridge house of correction.

She was without funds to pay the fine on her conviction on charges of keeping liquor for sale without a license. Probation officers told the court that Mrs. Baron had been fined $400 in four appearances in court since 1928. Part of the fines were remitted in 1937 on her promise to abstain from further sale of liquor.

Old Grads See 182 Get Radcliffe Honors

Radcliffe College today held the spotlight among the few New England schools left with doplomas and degrees still to be distributed.

Tonight, on the eve of Commencement, Radcliffe seniors and Ph.D. candidates will be guests of honor at the annual alumnae dinner at Hotel Statler. Represented will be 51 Radcliffe classes from 1889 to the present.

Guest of honor will be Miss Katherine McBride, new dean of Radcliffe, who takes office September 1. President Ada L. Comstock, Miss Louise Earle of Lynn, class of 1890; Mrs. Harold S. Lines of Walpole, 1915, and Mrs. Edward S. Stimpson of Newton Center, 1930, will be other speakers.

While Harvard was preparing for its traditional student parade tomorrow and commencement Thursday, Radcliffe was ready to distribute 182 degrees to seniors and graduate students tomorrow at 11.30 a. m., at Sanders Theater, Harvard.

Dr. William A. Neilson, president emeritus of Smith College, will be principal speaker.

Smith

Helen Hayes, movie and stage star, was awarded an honorary degree of doctor of Humane letters as Smith College in Northampton held its 62d annual commencement before 3000 students, guests and alumnae.

Among 30 graduates from New England receiving the bachelor of arts degree with honors was Miss Elizabeth Owens of Roxbury, who was graduated with summa cum laude.

Brown

Brown University's highest honor went to Chief Justice Fred T. Field of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts during commencement exercises in the historical First Baptist Meeting House at Providence. Justice Field was awarded the Susan Colver Rosenberger Medal by President Henry M. Wriston for "judicial integrity."

The medal is awarded every five years, or from time to time, as the faculty may determine. Chief Jutice Charles Evans Hughes, '81, of the U. S. Supreme Court, is among distinguished persons honored.

Tufts

A new League of Nations was visualized by Dr. Alexander Loudon, Netherlands minister to the United States, during his Commencement address before 521 graduates at Tufts College in Medford.

"Even though the attempt to provide a universal league has failed, mankind always strives to the ideal of peace and especially after a big war there is a strong current to internationalism," he declared.

Yale

President Charles Seymour announced today at Yale graduation exercises that McGeorge Bundy of Boston had been awarded the De-Forest medal for oratory and the $500 Alpheus Henry Snow prize for having "done the most for Yale by inspiring in his classmates an admiration and love for the best traditions of high scholarship."

At the exercises, 652 Yale seniors in Yale College, the Sheffield scientific school and the school of engineering received their degrees.

2 Streamlined Divisions for Big U. S. Army

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP) — The expanding regular army added two new streamlined divisions to its roster today, as Congress went to work on the $1,200,000,000 navy bill that would give the United States the mightiest fleet in the history of sea power.

The new divisions — heavily armed and completely motorized — will give the army a total of eight streamlined units, each designed to strike with greater speed and power than the ponderous old-style divisions.

Secretary of War Woodring, announcing plans for the new divisions last night, said their troops would be drawn from the 38,000 enlistments for which Congress provided funds recently when it increased army strength to 280,000 men.

ARMY OF 400,000

Legislation for an even larger standing army already is half way through Congress. Unanimously and without debate the House voted yesterday to move the strength up to 400,000 men—25,000 more than requested by General George C. Marshall, chief of staff.

With Senate approval expected for a n increase of at least that size, General Marshall has plans ready for a ninth streamlined division and the second of two highly mechanized divisions, similar to the German Panzer divisions used in the European war.

QUICK ACTION SEEN

The new fleet expansion bill, authorizing the construction of 84 more fighting ships during the naxt four years, was promised quick action as the House Naval Committee opened hearings.

Chairman Vinson (D.) of Georgia said he saw no reason why congressional action could not be completed by the weekend.

Putting passage of the bill in the "must" category, Vinson declared that "world conditions make it absolutely imperative that the navy be built up as rapidly as possible."

500 Begin Navy Training Here

More than 3000 CCC enrollees will be trained annually for the Merchant Marine Naval Reserve, it was revealed today following the arrival of a first contingent from St. Petersburg at the newly established training station on Gallups Island.

The youths arrived here aboard the U. S. Marine Service training ship American Seaman.

Under the plan, 500 will be trained at Gallups Island every six months, while similar groups will receive training at training stations in St. Petersburg, Fla., and at San Diego, Cal.

Sewall Leads Race For Maine Governor

PORTLAND, Me., June 18—State Senate President Sumner Sewall moved into the lead for the Republican gubernatorial nomination today as tabulation of yesterday's primary vote neared completion.

With 605 out of 629 precincts tabulated, Sewall held a total of 38,957 votes against 36,862 for Mayor Frederick G. Payne of Augusta.

The vote for two other candidates for the office was: Blin W. Page, Skowhegan, 29,843; Roy L. Fernald, Winterport, 18,868.

U. S. Rep. Ralph O. Brewster won Republican nomination to the U. S. Senate and his margin over Governor Lewis O. Barrows mounted steadily.

The vote, from 605 precincts, gave the three-term Congressman 69,337 to 48,635 for the chief executive, formerly Brewster's political ally.

Congressional results:

First district, 148 of 151 precincts: Maj. George C. Coe, Lovell, 3,991; Robert Hale, Portland, 12,214; William A. Holland, Portland, 1301; and Rep. James C. Oliver, 19,355.

Second district, 202 of 209 precincts: Frederick P. Bonney, August, 2898; State Rep. Hodgdon C. Buzzell, Belfast, 4126; Arthur B. Lancaster, Gardiner, 1554; State Rep. John G. Marshall, Auburn, 6794; Mrs. Smith, 26,611.

Third district, 245 of 269 precincts: Republicans, State Sen. J. Frederick Burns, Houlton, 11,626; Roscoe C. Emery, Eastport, 4869; Fellows, 16,746; Dr. W. N. Miner, Calais, 5641; Democrats, Curran, 3807; Nickerson, 1095.

The total Republican vote was less than 6000 short of the primary record of 123,520 set in 1928. Two years ago, when no Senate seat was at stake, Barrows won renomination to the governorship with a vote of 72,927 to 24,514 for Fernald.

Democrats voted lightly for their unopposed candidates.

KANE PUTS GAMBLERS ON SPOT

The smooth-palmed gentry of dice and cards found themselves benind the eight-ball in Woburn today because of William E. Kane's drastic ultimatum.

For, the mayor did not read the riot act to the gamblers themselves. Instead, he read it to his own police department.

Unless all suspected spots are closed by Saturday night, every police head will fall, from the chief on down, Kane told all officers at special roll call.

The mayor further told patrolmen that instead of going to their superior officers, they could go direct to the clerk of court and seek warrants against the proprietor of any suspected place on their routes.

Kane said he was forced to take the drastic action after hearing a story of gun play between two rival gamblers, one of whom drew a gun at the other's club and told patrons he was the boss and that they'd have to play at his place in the future.

Such a situation might lead to mob violence in Woburn, the mayor explained. He cited a case of a raid on a suspected place in which 70 men were found but allowed to go home without any arrests being made.

Kane said if he found it necessary to fire his police department he would appeal to the governor for state police to clean up conditions in Woburn.

Italians Sink 2 Oil Ships, Bomb Bases

ROME, June 18 (INS)—Heavy bombing attacks upon Malta, Corsica, Bizerta and the upper Sudan, in which two enemy oil tankers were sunk, were announced by Italian authorities today.

Enemy planes bombed Milan and other cities on the Ligurian coast, the announcement stated.

Virginio Gayda, Mussolini's frequent mouthpiece, wrote meanwhile that with France in collapse and Britain fighting with American material assistance the war had become "a purely Anglo-Saxon struggle against a large part of the rest of the world."

Italian officials emphasized that the Ligurian coast bombing occurred "despite the French offer of peace."

"Last night the enemy renewed its air raids," the communique said, "hitting non-military objectives.

"At Milan, several houses and a convent were damaged. Two persons were killed and a number of civilians wounded.

"In Liguria, our anti-aircraft batteries shot down four enemy planes.

"On the night of June 16-17, efficacious air bombardments were carried out on the French naval base at Bizerta as well as military objectives in Malta and Corsican airdromes. Our submarines sank two enemy oil tankers, one of large tonnage.

"In North Africa, operations continued on the frontier of Cyrenaica. In East Africa, many successful air operations were carried out, with bombardments of air bases and military objectives in upper Sudan.

"All our machines returned. Three enemy planes were destroyed on the ground and one chaser was shot down. There were some enemy air raids, but slight damage. One enemy plane crashed in flames."

CHURCHILL WARNS U. S. DOOMED IF HITLER WINS

The delay entailed a loss of 15 or 16 divisions, Churchill said.

He recalled how the British army and 120,000 French troops were rescued by the British navy from Dunkirk but only with the loss of "all their cannon, vehicles and equipment."

"This loss inevitably took some weeks to repair, and in the first two of those weeks the battle in France had been lost," Churchill said.

LAUDS FRENCH HEROES

He said that considering the heroic resistance made by the French and the enormous losses and inevitable exhaustion of the Germans that "it might be well thought that the 25 divisions of the best trained and best equipped troops would have turned the scale."

Only three British divisions were able to stay in the lines with the French, Churchill said, adding that recrimination "is utterly futile and even harmful.

He referred to "many who wished to hold an inquest on the conduct of the government and Parliament during the years which led up to this catastrophe."

Indictment of the former government, he said, "would be a foolish and pernicious process."

Churchill decried recrimination, saying: "I am quite sure that if we open a quarrel between the past and the present we shall find we have lost the future."

Churchill said he spoke of events leading up to the recent fighting in France "to explain why it was we did not have between 12 and 14 British divisions fighting in this great battle instead of only three."

"More than 1,250,000 men are now under arms in this country, Churchill said, adding that a great mass of stores, rifles and munitions have been saved from France.

"I made it perfectly clear that whatever happened in France would make no difference to the resolve of Britain and the British Empire to fight on," he said.

During the last few days, he disclosed, Britain had "successfully brought off the great majority of troops" from lines of communication in France.

"We have a great system of minefields," Churchill said. "The utmost ingenuity and imagination is being displayed to meet and counter any novel possibilities of invasion."

After telling of the size of the military force in the British Isles Churchill said that "we may expect very large additions to our weapons in the near future."

CALL UP MORE TROOPS

The prime minister promised that Britain would call up and drill "further large numbers" of troops and told those not called up to stay at their ordinary work.

Churchill assured the nation that "the invasion of Great Britain would require the transport across the sea of hostile armies upon a very large scale."

In his rejection of "recriminations" the prime minister said it was "absolutely necessary" that all ministers should be respected and that their subordinates must know thier chiefs were not "threatened men."

Hence, he said, "I cannot accept the drawing of any distinctions between members of the present government," and added "its members are going to stand together. . . . We are going to govern the country and fight the war."

Churchill said: "We have incorporated into our defense forces every man for whom we have a weapon.

MORE CAPABLE NOW

"So far as seaborne invasion on a great scale is concerned, we are far more capable of meeting it today than we were at periods during the last and during the early months of the war,' Churchill said.

He cautioned that the navy "had never pretended to be able to prevent raids by bodies of five to ten thousand men flung across the sea during a dark night or a foggy morning."

"The British air force is now stronger relatively to the German than it has ever been," Churchill said, adding "there is reason for great vegilance and exertion but none whatever for panic."

"We must remember that even five divisions, very lightly equipped, would require from 200 to 250 ships."

TAUNTS ITALIANS

He said such a force "would not be easy to take across the sea with no powerful naval force to escort it" and predicted it would be "intercepted long before it reached the coast."

Germany, he said, was "crafty, cunning and full of novel treachery," but Britain had officers thoroughly trained to "counteract these novel possibilities."

Churchill taunted the Italians with the declaration that "we should be delighted to offer Mussolini a free safeguarded passage through the Straits of Gibraltar" to meet Britain "in these waters."

Church, warning that Britain might soon be subjected to bombing attacks, said:

"No invasion on a scale beyond the capacity of our air forces to crush immediately is likely to take place from the air until our air force has been definitely overpowered."

NAZIS LOSE TWO FOR ONE

In defense of Britain, he said, "the advantage of the defenders will very great. We hope to improve upon the rate of three or four to one at Dunkirk."

Threats of invasion by air-borne troops were dismissed by Churchill with a statement that "we ought to be able to give these gentry a warm reception both in the air and on the ground."

"In France we were accustomed to inflict a loss of two to two and a half to one," he said. "In the fighting over Dunkirk, which was a sort of no man's land, we undoubtedly beat the German air force and inflicted a loss of three or four to one."

FRANCE REJECTS OFFER

Shortly after he spoke the British government disclosed that during the dark hours of Sunday, before France asked Germany her conditions for peace, Britain had offered to unite with France as one nation to continue the struggle.

The announcement said the union would have been complete, with one government, all-inclusive citizenship and common agencies for defense, finances and foreign relations.

Apparently the French cabinet rejected the offer at the meeting which resulted in Paul Reynaud's resignation as premier and Marshal Henri Phillipe Petain's designation as his successor.

STOP NAZI GOBBLE, IS U. S. PLAN

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—The United States government stepped up its efforts to reinforce the political, economic and military defenses of the Western Hemisphere today as Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini considered the peace terms to be offered France.

Leaders predicted that the House would pass legislation before nightfall charting a course of action in case any attempt is made to transfer French possessions in the New World to Germany.

The resolution, approved by the Senate yesterday, 76 to 0, does not refer specifically to the European war but serves notice that the United States would not "asquiesce" in the transfer of Western Hemisphere colonies from one non-American nation to another.

FRENCH FLEET PROBLEM

It provides that, if any attempt to effect such a transfer appears likely, the United States will consult immediately with the other American Republics on steps "to safeguard their common interests."

Speculation persisted here over the fate of the French fleet, the second largest in Europe.

Should it be turned over to the Germans intact, the combined Nazi-Italian-French fleet would outnumber the British in all categories other than cruisers and aircraft carriers and would have a similar superiority over the United States fleet.

Coincidentally, the administration here rushed preparations to start construction of additional warships already voted by Congress and asked congressional approval of a further $1,200,000,000 building program designed to give this country by 1944 a fleet far larger than any now afloat.

FRENCH CREDITS FROZEN

Another development was President Roosevelt's issuance of an order "freezing" French credits and capital in this country, estimated at more than $1,000,000,000.

American assets of other invaded countries have been "frozen" similarly to prevent the Reich from gaining possession of them.

READY FOR ORPHANS

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 18 (AP) — Machinery for settling more than 5000 English war orphans in Australia now is complete, it was announced today by Senator H. S. Foll, Commonwealth Minister of Interior.

Argentine Alarmed As Nazi Peril Looms

BUENOS AIRES, June 18 (AP)—Informed Argentine sources declared today that the South American nations, dependent on substantial export trade balances for both financial and political stability, needed material aid from the United States to avert domination by totalitarian powers in Europe.

These sources said the time had arrived when the United States must choose between extending far-reaching financial aid to these "economic victims of the European war" or watching these nations fall into economic systems of Old World totalitarian nations.

Argentina, like Brazil, Chile, Uruguay and other South American republics, has seen her export markets disrupted and some of them eliminated by the spread of war in Europe, these sources pointed out.

ANSWER TO CARTEL PLAN

These comments came as news arrived from Washington of a White House plan for an inter-American cartel, or sales agency, to handle western hemisphere exports.

(Under this plan a foreign purchaser would have to deal with this single agency rather than shop around for a bargain among the various countries.

(Experts of the United States Department of Commerce said the plan would protect the American republics against being forced to accept barter deals such as those offered by Germany and Italy.)

BEST EXAMPLE

Argentina said this nation provides the best example of the peril to Pan-American democratic solidarity in the present economic problem.

Argentina is one of the strongest democracies below the Equator, they declared, but economic instability is an ever-present threat to her security.

Failure of Argentina to maintain her economic position through United States' assistance would mean, they said, that as soon as the European war ends this country would be subjected to the domination of German economy because of inability to market her products elsewhere.

Argentina, with an important output of wheat, corn, meat, hides and wool in normal times, has lost 30 per cent of her markets abroad—in Holland, Belgium, France, Norway, Denmark, Poland and Czechoslovakia as well as through reduction of trade with Germany and Italy.

URUGUAY BANS 5th COLUMN

MONTEVIDEO, June 18 (AP)—A government measure regulating the right of association with a view to suppressing organizations which might carry on fifth column activities became a law early this morning with Senate approval.

The Senate passed the measure without amendments after long deliberations. The Chamber of Deputies gave it approval on June 13.

The German minister already had ordered closed all Nazi centers and organizations in Uruguay in expectation that the measure would become a law.

The Chamber this afternoon will resume discussion of a committee report which traced Nazi activities directly to the German minister Otto Langmann, and his immediate aides. Langmann has disclaimed responsibility.

GOP Blocks Recess Hopes of Democrats

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Democratic leaders, abandoning hope of congressional adjournment by Saturday, encountered today a Republican rebuff to a compromise proposal for a recess until Aug. 15.

"I will not agree to any recess beyond three days," said Senator McNary (R.) of Oregon, the minority leader, who has joined others of his party in demanding that Congress stay in session during the European war crisis.

He pointed out under the Constitution neither chamber can quit for more than three days at a time without the other's consent

The Democrats' object in proposing the recess was to permit Congressmen to take part in the Republican convention, June 24 and the Democratic convention, July 15.

The Senate pushed ahead with the $1,007,000,000 defense tax bill, with debate centering chiefly on demands for larger tax increases than those voted by the House and Senate Finance Committee.

Senator Tydings (D.) of Maryland drafted amendments designed to produce an estimated $400,000,000 in additional revenue by boosting the tax on middle and upper-bracket incomes and reducing exemptions for married income taxpayers from $2500 to $1600.

The pending bill fixes such exemptions at $2000, places an extra 10 per cent tax on income tax payments, and increases various excise levies.

Before the Senate could reach a final vote on the legislation it had to act on two other controversial amendments to the House bill.

One would require the President to impound 10 per cent of all appropriations for the year beginning July 1, except those for defense and such fixed charges as interest on the national debt.

The other would end the Treasury's authority to purchase foreign silver.

ANTI-WAR PLANK FOR GOP URGED

PHILADELPHIA, June 18 (AP)—Dr. Glenn Frank, head of a Republican committee of 200 that framed last February a "basis" for a party platform, today stood by the committee's declaration against any commitments "that might involve us in other people's wars."

The Frank committee in a 30,000 word document entitled "a program for a dynamic America," asserted "the first cincern of our foreign policy must be to protect the security and welfare of the American people," keep out of the present war in Europe, and build up defenses adequate to protect the western hemisphere."

DR. FRANK STANDS PAT

Prior to appearing before the Republican national convention's resolutions committee today, Dr. Frank in an interview declared if he were writing the program committee report now he probably would "not change six sentences in it."

"And that goes for the sections on foreign policy as well as those on domestic policies," he added.

The resolutions committee was organized yesterday with the unanimous selection of Herbert K. Hyde, Oklahoma City, Okla., lawyer, and advocate of Thomas E. Dewey for the party's presidential nomination, as temporary chairman

He will serve until the convention m .s next Monday. Then it will be up to the committee, after its p.sonnel is approved by the convention, to decide whether Hyde shall continue.

FOR AID TO ALLIES

Although favoring "material" assistance to the Allies through private agencies, Hyde said he did not believe the United States "should undertake to guarantee the political integrity or territorial independence of ny nation in Europe or Asia."

Dr. Frank preferred to wait until he appeared before the resolutions group before stating whether he agreed with Alf Landon, Kansas, and former Senator Walter Edge, New Jersey, resolutions committeemen, that the United States should help the Allies with supplies.

Dr. Frank asserted both the foreign and domestic situations were "changing so rapidly that no political party today can forecast in detail every move it may have to make to meet changing conditions."

PEACE OF VENGEANCE DEMANDED BY NAZIS

more brutal than anything since the destruction of Carthage.

"He and his master, Foch, then did not speak as soldiers to soldiers, but as prison wardens to criminals. We are not vengeful, but we have ceased being foolish German sentimentalists."

THEY'LL BE TOUGH

Germany will act toward France in her hour of defeat "not in a spirit of vengeance," the Lokal Anzeiger said, but "with the necessary hardness and firmness which our responsibility to our soldiers and a thousand years of political experience demand."

Germany was determined to make its own terms effective in full.

It has been repeatedly made evident German troops have not stopped their march through France despite Petain's message asking for an armistice.

How long it may require Hitler and Mussolini to write this important new chapter—or volume—of European history, observers could only surmise.

BRITAIN, RUSSIA IN WAY

"We are determined to have a peace not for the present, but for centuries," said a headline in Der Angriff, Propaganda Minister Goebbels' paper. An accompanying article said:

"France forced the use of arms. We now begin giving Europe peace for which we have fought. The new Europe is being born these hours."

Only Great Britain and her fleet and possibly Russia and her armies stand between complete liberty of Hitler and Mussolini in their decisions at Munich.

It was announced territorial experts and economists were taken from Berlin to Munich to assist in framing the terms.

One could only guess what might be asked of France, but it was notable that the Berlin press began mentioning that Toul, Verdun and Metz were German cities taken from her by the peace of Westphalia.

SWISS DOOMED TOO?

Under the same treaty, much of Alsace held by Austria was transferred to France while Switzerland was set up as a country separate from Germany.

Italy during the period it was a disjointed group of city states lost territory to France.

"Nice, Savay, Tunis, Jibouti!" has been the Italian cry.

Whatever the demands on Petain may be, it was emphasized here that France will be required to swallow them.

Meanwhile collapse of the French army is progressing rapidly, the German high command declared, announcing that the Orne river had been crossed at several points between Caen and Le Mans, in northwestern France.

METZ FORTRESS FALLS

The communique reported capture of Belfort fortress, the French armament center of Le Creuzot, the fortress of Dijon and Colmar.

The great fortress of Metz in the Maginot line fell before "audaciously advancing mobile German detachments," the communique said.

From three parts of the Maginot line still defended by the French on both sides of Thionville are now under attack from the rear, it continued. The break through of the Maginot line south of Saarbrucken was widened as far as the Rhine-Marne canal.

"Far more than 100,000 prisoners" were taken yesterday alone, the communique reported. Booty included the equipment of numerous French divisions and several fortresses.

The high command told of heavy punishment inflicted by the German air force in northwestern France, in the estuary of the River Loire and between the Atlantic and the upper Loire.

The high command announced today that a German submarine made a success attack on a British auxiliary cruiser yesterday in the Moray firth, on Scotland's northeastern coast. It did not say whether the cruiser was sunk.

"I Talked with God"

(Yes, I Did—Actually and Literally)

and as a result of that little talk with God some ten years ago, a strange Power came into my life. After 42 years of horrible, sickening, dismal failure and despair, everything took on a brighter hue. It's fascinating to talk with God, and it can be done very easily once you learn how. And when you do, well, there will come into your life the same dynamic Power which came into mine. The shackles of defeat which had bound me for years went a-shimmering — and now?—well—I own control of the largest circulating daily newspaper in my County, I own the largest office building in my City, I drive a beautiful limousine, I own my own home which has a lovely pipe organ in it, and my family are abundantly provided for after I'm gone. And all this has been made possible because one day, ten years ago, I talked with God, Actually and literally talked with God. I

You, too, may experience that strange Power which comes from talking with God, and when you do, if there is poverty, unrest, unhappiness, ill-health or despair in your life, well—this same God-Power is able to do for you what it did for me. No matter how useless or helpless your life seems to be—all this can be changed. For this is not a humon power I'm talking about—it's a God-Power, and, of course, there can be no limitations to the God-Power, can there? Would you like to know how you too may talk with God? Would you like to know how this God-Power may come into your life as it came into mine? Then write a letter or post-card to Dr. Frank B. Robinson, Dept. 425, Moscow, Idaho, and full particulars of this strange—Teaching will be sent you free of charge. But write now—while you are in the mood. It only costs one cent to find out, and this might easily be the best one cent you have ever spent. It may sound unbelievable—but it's true or I wouldn't tell you it was. Advt. Canadians Escape by 2 Hours

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, June 18 (AP)—Canada's active service force, after months of preparation and training, finally got to France last week primed for front line action but, it was disclosed today, had to turn around immediately and return to England without having seen a German or fired a shot.

The vanguard of the first division is back with a dramatic story. Part of the detachment, comprising the headquarters staff of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade and the 48th Highlanders, escaped the German encircling move by a margin of only two hours.

Led by Maj.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, the divisions moved toward France a week ago today. For days and nights long columns of motor transports rumbled to the ports of embarkation.

Escorted by British and French naval forces, the leading transports carried the First Brigade, some advance units, vehicles, ammunition and supplies, reaching port last Thursday night.

Troop ships crowded with more Canadians expecting to come to grips with the Germans rode at anchor in a south coast harbor, while other units streamed hourly into the assembly area.

SHOW CALLED OFF

Then suddenly came the news that the "show" had been called off. The men didn't know then why the change had been made. Now they know.

Meanwhile, the Canadian advance guard had moved on towards its zone of concentration in France, and had reached Sable, near Tours. They hadn't the faintest idea of how tight the German ring was being drawn.

Their train glided quietly into the yards in the early hours of Friday. Not a soul was in sight. The French engineer sounded a few sharp blasts of the locomotive whistle, but there was no response.

Brig. A. A. Smith, at the head of the 1st Infantry Brigade, and Lt. Col. E. . Haldenby, heading the 4th Highlanders, started off to investigate. They met a man who identified himself as a British military transport officer.

He told them that the Germans had broken through the French defenses and that they were at that very moment advancing on Sable.

"Get your men out of here as quickly as you can," he advised, and then vanished into the darkness.

NOT ENOUGH STEAM

The Canadian commanders were dumbfounded. They tried to find their informant again, but failed. Inquiries elsewhere, however, convinced them that their plight was serious.

Orders were given to the train crew to prepare to return, but the crew declined to move without word from the stationmaster, who could not be found. Furthermore, they said there wasn't enough steam in the boiler. And they added:

"Besides, the war is over."

Finally a firing crew was made up of soldiers and the engineer, upon being given a carton of cigarettes and a bottle of wine, agreed to take his place at the throttle.

When the train reached the port the Canadians found that none of the British or French officials there had been expecting them. Luck was with the Canadians, however, for a fast cross-channel ferry was tied up at the dock.

Within 15 minutes the Canadians were aboard and on their way back to England, more than 2000 men cramming into quarters normally accommodating only 800.

They received a welcoming roar of cheers upon their return to England, despite the fact they had seen no action.

British Told How to Meet Nazi Invaders

LONDON, June 18 (AP)—The ministry of information announced today seven rules for the guidance of the British populace "if an invader comes." The rules are:

1—Whether the invader comes by parachute, airplane or ship, you must remain where you are. The order is to "stay put."

2—Do not believe rumors and do not spread them. When you receive an order make sure it is authentic.

3—Keep watch. If you see anything suspicious, note it carefully and go at once to the nearest policeman or military officer.

4—If parachutists land near your home they will not be feeling at all brave. Do not give any German anything. Hide your food and your bicycles. Hide your maps. See that the enemy gets no petrol. Put your car or motorcycle out of action.

5—Be ready to help the military in any way, but not block roads until ordered to do so by the military or local defense volunteer authorities.

6—Factory managers and workmen should organize some system by which a sudden attack can be resisted.

7—Think before you act. But think always of your country before you think of yourself.

ALPINE CHASSEURS SAVE 350,000 FRENCH IN TRAP

LES VERRIES, Switzerland (at French border), June 18 (AP)—French troops, 350,000 strong, escaped today from the lower Maginot line to reassemble with the southern army and lend force to the nation's insistence upon an "honorable peace."

The troops moved south in two main forces, the first of 300,000 and the second of 50,000.

The larger body was shielded by a few thousand French Alpine Chasseurs, who stood guard in the lower Jura region while the Maginot line troops escaped behind the thin screen.

The second force of 50,000, mainly from the Nancy garrison and veterans of engagements around Metz and Vosges, 12 hours later made their way through the Saone valley unopposed except for skirmishes with small motorized units.

DESTROY VAST STORES

Their passage indicated here that although German Panzer divisions reached the Swiss frontier early this morning, the Alsace Lorraine area is still far from being sealed off from the rest of the French forces.

Artillery fire just north of Basel ceased today, but the rumble of guns was still audible from the region around Neuf Brisach, where the Germans are maintaining bridge heads at the Rhine and the Rhine-Rhone canal.

Huge clouds of smoke marked the passage of French troops in withdrawal. They were burning oil and gasoline reservoirs, dynamiting bridges and destroying munitions dumps behind them.

In the communities of eastern France through which the troops moved south, the civilians reopened barricaded shutters and doors to greet and feed the soldiers.

JOYOUS SURPRISE

Everything had been prepared for the encirclement developments and the people had been expecting to see German rather than their own soldiers.

The main French army of the south, according to advices reaching here, is being reassembled at the junction of the Rhone and Saone rivers.

The feat of the Alpine Chasseurs in screening their mates happened this way:

Sometime between the fall of Paris and the fall of Verdun the Maginot defenders were ordered to send out all available reserves, and at the same time two divisions of Alpine Chasseurs were rushed from the Italian front to reenforce the Verdun sector.

Before the Chasseurs reached the Verdun region, however, the Ger[illegible] through on the Marne and sent an armored division to close the door behind Alsace Lorraine and the Maginot line.

On Sunday they cut the Chasseurs force in two less than a division was left between the Germans and the Jura mountains.

Nevertheless, despite their small force and their weariness from several days fighting they stood [illegible] hours against the Germans.

Queen Elizabeth Expected to Sail

NEW YORK, June 18 (INS)—Despite official denials, persistent rumors swept the waterfront today that departure of the British superliner Queen Elizabeth from New York harbor is imminent.

The rumors, repudiated by the British ministry of shipping and the Cunard White Star Line, apparently sprang from the fact that a heavy load of fuel oil is being pumped aboard the 85,000-ton craft the world's largest merchant vessel.

The rumors concerning the Queen Elizabeth were fanned by the silent and mysterious departure last night of the French liner Pasteur. The French vessel carried a cargo of war supplies, including heavy field guns and caissons.

20 Die in Red Riga Riots

STOCKHOLM, June 18 (AP)—About a score of civilians and a policemen were killed or injured in a riot attending the entrance of the Soviet troops into Riga, the Stockholm Aftonbladet reported today in a dispatch from the Latvian capital.

The newspaper said Riga youths celebrating the arrival of the Russian troops, clashed with police. Otherwise, it said, the Soviet occupation of the Baltic states was reflected quietly, with crowds forbidden to gather in Latvia or Lithuania.

Negotiations of Soviet representatives in Riga, Tallinn and Kaunas continued today.

Chesty Male Bathers Must Cover Up

Keep 'em up, men!

For Metropolitan police made it clear today they're enforcing the ordinance against exposure of male chests at bathing resorts, following arrests of two men at Nahant Beach.

Officials unofficially admit there may be some aesthetic value in the Atlas chest developed after a correspondence course; at least to the man who owns one.

But decorum, 1940 style, comes before decorative, as it did in 1939, say officials. The man must wear a top which straps down from his shoulders, besides trunks, and he must keep the straps up, said police.

Arrested and ordered to appear on Thursday in Lynn District Court were 1940's first alleged violators of the ordinance—John Brennan, 31, of Wyman st., Lynn, and Charles Fournas, 18, of Boston st., Lynn.

Wedding Separates Quads of Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 18 (AP)—Cupid claimed his first victim among the Keys quadruplets today.

It was brown-eyed Mona's wedding day. The young man was Robert W. Fowler, oil company acquaintant. She met him two years ago.

Her sisters Leota, Mary and Roberta—cast aside any sad thoughts over the break-up and said they were "right happy for Mona."

Roberta, Mona's identical twin, had a fellow net maid of honor's dress. Bridesmaids Lota and Mary had blue net.

Fowler asked James R. Veazy to be his best man, and the minister was Dr. W. B. White, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

The couple planned a honeymoon in the east, with a visit to the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fowler of Bloomington, Ind.

The quads have been in the spotlight since their birth June 4, 1915. Their parents soft-pedalled commercialism for 22 years. Their appearances as vocalists were confined to schools, churches and civic affairs.

They were graduated from Baylor University, Waco, Tex., in 1937.

Leota will be a summer camp counselor at Marshall, Tex., this summer. Mary and Roberta are planning a trip. This fall all three hope to get teaching jobs in Texas.

When do they expect to be married?

"Well, not next week."

Letters Spur Action On Entry of Orphans

America is a democracy, and if the people want something and voice their demand for it in sufficiently loud and understandable language they usually get it.

That is why the bringing of little war orphans from Europe's embattled countries to safe, American homes become daily more probable.

America, particularly New England, desires to shelter hundreds of these children.

War-torn and war-menaced governments are equally anxious to have them come here.

All that stands in the way is the hesitancy of Washington officials to lift or suspend immigration law restrictions.

But, thanks to the hundreds who have written letters saying, "We want the children," legislation providing for the immediate admittance of the little ones to America without passports, visas or head taxes now awaits action in Congress.

SPECIAL BUREAU

All who have written letters to the editors of the America, Record and Advertiser are helping to speed the children's arrival.

Each letter goes to the Special War Orphans' Bureau maintained by these newspapers in Washington.

The more letters that will be received, the louder and stronger will be the demand for the passage of this legislation.

All requests will be turned over to the proper authorities in the hope that all who want little boys and girls from "over there" will get them.

Typical letters in today's mail say:

BROOKLINE—"My husband and I would be very much interested in adopting a little war refugee. We have no children of our own and have long wondered how to go about trying to take one of these poor children into our home.

"We would like a little girl, as young as we could get—Belgian, French, Dutch and preferably of the Catholic faith."

LAWRENCE—"My wife and I are childless and have always wanted to have a little son or daughter we could cherish as our own. All we ask is that the baby be about three years of age. We will adopt a brunette as readily as a blonde."

EVERETT—"I have two grown daughters and a son. But I am not too old to raise a little war orphan, one around five years of age. My children are as enthusiastic about this as I am. We'd all like a little Catholic girl from England."

SUFFIELD, Ct.—"I'd be the world's happiest woman if I could give a mother's love to a little war baby. We are not wealthy, but could afford to provide adequately for another child. Because we have a little boy, we would prefer a girl baby, from one to three years of age."

FALL RIVER—"My husband and I would be very glad to take a little war orphan. We prefer a little girl from two to three years old. We'd like her to grow up and love us as her own father and mother.

"We'd want to have her stay with us always. It would break our hearts to become attached to her and then be obliged to send her back home later on."

ROXBURY—"My wife and I are in a position to give a good home to a little war orphan, French, English or Dutch. We have the deepest sympathy for the children of the unfortunate countries abroad. We would prefer a Protestant child."

CAMBRIDGE—"We have three boys, the youngest 16. All our married life my husband and I have prayed for a little daughter. But we have been disappointed.

"Now, if the government allows these war orphans to come to America, we'd be most eager to take a baby girl.

"You may rest assured that she will have a good home, education and an abundance of kindness."

PORTLAND, Me.—"We have been married nine years and have no children of our own. The house seems empty without them. We have the means of giving a child a nice home and we would just love one of these war orphans.

"We would like a little English girl between the ages of two and five but would not mind if we had to take a younger child."

PAWTUCKET, R. I.—When we read in the newspapers and hear over the radio of children being evacuated in war torn Europe, our hearts go out to the parents who must part with their little ones, perhaps never to see them again.

"It surely makes us realize how fortunate we are to be living in America.

"We have been married for six years and have not yet been blessed with a baby.

"We have a fairly comfortable income and would be thankful for the privilege of caring for some little English girl around two years of age.

"Of course we would rather keep her always, but would even be willing to return her to her parents at the end of the war.

"Thank God we have people in our country like Gloria H., who want to help preserve life instead of sacrificing it on the altar of war."

RESCUE TIP WINS $3 PRIZE

The realization that sea rescues make news brings top prize of $3 in the Daily Record-American and Sunday Advertiser weekly news tip contest to a South Boston man who flashed the rescue of 12 seamen from the fishing boat Yankee.

A news-minded East Boston man who realized that military activities make spot news these days, wins a $2 prize for a tip that war planes destined for France stopped to refuel at East Boston Airport, en route to the Canadian border.

Prizes of $2 each also were awarded a Lincoln woman for a tip on the drowning of a five-year old boy in the Concord river; a Boston man for his flash on the collapse of a Harrison ave. building; and a Somerville woman for a story about a boy being trapped in an elevator.

Fourteen other prizes of $1 each for tips to the City Editor at Liberty 4000 went to:

A Cambridge man for a court verdict; a South End woman who reported the robbery of a woman in Copley sq.; and a Winthrop man for his tip on a head-on crash in the Sumner tunnel.

Other prize-winning tips reported a plane forced down in Randolph; a Melrose filling station holdup; a Melrose auto crash in which four girls were injured; a Somerville drugstore holdup; the collapse of a telephone pole in South Boston, the rescue of two women from drowning when a boat overturned on Lake Quanapowitt; a pony ice-cream cart runaway in Dorchester; a drowning at Jerry's Pit, Cambridge; the stripping of a stolen auto by thieves working near Hingham police headquarters, and the knocking down of a fire alarm box by a runaway truck in Brighton.

A good human interest picture resulted from a tip on the hatching of a brood of wild ducks at a Back Bay parking lot.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By HARRIET PARSONS

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, June 18—Embers of a deal between Maurice Evans and Warner Brothers are bursting into flame again. (M-m-m-m, ain't I poetic?)

MAURICE EVANS, famed Shakespearian star, arrives in Hollywood today to discuss a film deal with Warner Brothers.

The Shakespearian actor passed up a chance to appear with Bette Davis in "The Letter" in order to make a tour with "King Richard the II." He's due in Hollywood today, however, and will lend a much interested ear to Warner overtures this time. If he's as good on the screen as he is on the stage he'll be a definite asset to any studio.

John Garfield is doing his best to pay his debt to Angelo Patti, the Italian immigrant who came to this country and became famous as mentor and father confessor to under-privileged youth. Patti had much to do with putting Garfield on the right path when the latter was a lad in the slums.

Now John is endeavoring to interest studios in a story which he's written about his friend. He calls it "P. S. 45" meaning Public School 45.

Marihuana Film Scores

Suggested by front page headlines and based on FBN case histories, "Reefer Madness," now unreeling on the Globe Theater screen, is an unanswerable if lurid argument against marihuana.

A weed that grows wild anywhere—it was even discovered growing in Boston Common not so long ago—it has been and is being peddled in the form of cigarettes to high school boys and girls in such alarmingly increasing quantities that it has occasioned an investigation by the Federal Bureau of Narcotics.

Official Summer In Hub Friday

Summer comes to Boston at 9.37 a. m., eastern daylight saving time, on Friday, the weatherman reminded today.

On account of the warm, clear weather Boston has been enjoying recently, he said, citizens have probably believed that summer already was here, but that isn't so.

Fair and warm weather, except for possible showers, will continue for the present.

'MY FAVORITE WIFE' COMES TO KEITH'S ON THURSDAY

Irene Dunne In Gay Comedy

Irene Dunne is an annoying but irresistible Mrs. Enoch Arden in "My Favorite Wife;" the extravagantly praised comedy, which also boasts Cary Grant, Randolph Scott and Gail Patrick as her co-stars, comes to Keith-Memorial screen on Thursday.

Wherever "My Favorite Wife" has been shown, critics and audiences alike have been unanimous in hailing it as the gayest of romantic comedies. All of which is hardly surprising when it is recalled that its producer, Leo Carey, and its co-stars, Miss Dunne and Grant, were responsible for that Academy Award winner, "The Awful Truth."

Another factor might be the skill of its director, Garson Kanin, the young man whose every picture has been what is known in the trade as a clickeroo—and until "Bachelor Mother" came along they were made on a B budget.

Bella and Sam Spewack's story have to do with Nick and Eve Arden (E-Nick Arden, get it?). Eve, shipwrecked seven years ago, returns home on the day her husband, Grant, and his bride, Gail Patrick, start for their honeymoon. Eve tags after them, disconcerting Grant so he never thinks to kiss the bride.

Another thing that's no laughing matter to Grant is the discovery that his favorite wife had a next-door neighbor, a virile vegetarian named Randy Scott, throughout the seven years she was marooned on a romantic South Seas island.

Others who add to the film's hilarious situations are Granville Bates, Pedro de Cordoba, Hugh O'Connell, Donald McBride, Ann Shoemaker, Scotty Beckett and Mary Lou Harrington.

The second feature, "Sandy Is a Lady," launches Baby Sandy into stardom, with such notable comedians as Mischa Auer, Eugene Pallette, Billy Gilbert and Edgar Kennedy to keep things moving.

CARY GRANT, who is the other—and infinitely more important—man in Irene Dunne's life, completes the triangle of which Randolph Scott and Miss Dunne are two-thirds in RKO Radio's brilliant comedy, "My Favorite Wife." This Garson Kanin-directed film is due at Keith Memorial, Thursday.

CONGRESS should remain in session for the duration of the genuine crisis that now confronts this country.

To abandon its post now is not only to abandon the mandate it received from the Constitution but it would be "RUNNING OUT" ON THE PEOPLE.

From a Constitutional standpoint, it is clear why this Congress should remain in session.

The great document that created Congress says that Congress ALONE shall have power "to raise and support armies" and "to provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions."

Moreover, there are tremendous issues before Congress and the country today—issues that may decide the fate of All Americans FOREVER.

These issues, besides the vital one of control of the militia, are:

1.—DEFENSE MEASURES,

2.—COLOSSAL APPROPRIATIONS,

3. -TAXES,

4.—UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING, and

5.—OUR ULTIMATE OFFICIAL ATTITUDE TOWARD THE EUROPEAN BELLIGERENTS.

Clearly, all these are strictly Congressional matters, and it would be not only unconstitutional but COWARDLY to place the burden on the shoulders of the Executive branch of the Federal Government.

Such an act would be recreant to the greatest trust ever put into the hands of a body of men by a free people.

PATRIOTISM should be the only motive at present that should guide the thoughts and deeds of our national legislators.

The great questions—the most vital that ever confronted us—of defense, appropriations, taxation and military training should be threshed out in debate.

While we are defending with our pen and our tongues before a world of dying democracies our own democratic form of government, the men whom we have elected to represent us should not abandon its principles.

And that is precisely what Congress would be doing if it adjourns this month, or next month or in any month before it has asserted its full Constitutional authority and power in deciding the questions before the nation.

ELEVEN TRAFFIC DEATHS, six of them of children, during the past week on Massachusetts highways prompted Registrar Frank A. Goodwin to say:

"The outstanding feature of last week's automobile death record was the marked increase in the number of young people killed, several of them under school age.

"Five of the six pedestrians listed were children, one a young boy bicycle rider.

"It is reported this boy was pedaling along on the left side of the road and suddenly swerved over to the right in front of an automobile."

If that is true, the youth was simply more unfortunate than the hundreds of other young bicyclists who habitually take all kinds of chances and miraculously escape injury and death.

But the fact that most of these risk-takers are lucky does not mean that they possess charmed lives. Scores are bound to gamble with fate once too often.

Every bicycle rider should be compelled to obey the rules of the road for vehicles and keep to the right, just as motorists do.

And if he persists in breaking the rules, he should lose his road privileges in the same manner as the irresponsible automobile driver.

MORE TYPHOID FEVER was reported in the Boston metropolitan area last month than in any previous May since 1931.

This information, released by the State Health Department should not cause alarm among parents, though it certainly ought to inspire serious thought.

The disease has not reached epidemic proportions. Only seventeen cases were reported throughout the Commonwealth.

Yet that represents an increase of THIRTEEN over the amount recorded in the corresponding month a year ago.

The important thing is to find the causes of typhoid fever and then, so far as possible, to eliminate them.

A principal cause, as everyone knows, is polluted water.

Repeated surveys have shown that many parts of Boston Harbor are polluted, dangerously so.

The Legislature has considered the matter, competent engineers have recommended sewage treatment plants and a commission to pave the way for their construction exists.

But very little has been accomplished.

Thousands who fear typhoid fever and want their children protected from it will ask, WHY.

IT WAS to describe people who opposed armed preparedness and compulsory military training that Theodore Roosevelt originated the term "Mollycoddle" . . . A woman of Manhattan charged with extortion acted as her own lawyer. She was sentenced to seven and a half years in jail. It has been said since ancient times that "He who is his own lawyer has a fool for a client." Has one acting as his or her own attorney ever won a law suit? . . . IN AMERICA there are 11,000,000 aliens. Many are here illegally. Many are on relief. Many hold jobs and have deprived U. S. citizens of chances for employment. Many aliens earn money and send it abroad. Foreign nations do not let Americans without money stay in their countries. Nor do they let Americans deprive natives of jobs. Nor can Americans earn money in a foreign country and send it to the U. S. A. The traditional figure of Uncle Sam which represents the United States needs a shave. He looks too much like Santa Claus.

-:- -:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, June 18—I had a most beautiful drive Sunday afternoon along the banks of the Hudson.

However, I learned all over again how many of us in this country have cars for our progress was slow indeed. Though that gives more time to enjoy the scenery, if one has a destination to reach at a given time, it can be a trifle distracting.

On the way back, I found a much less frequented, if not quite as scenically beautiful road. I arrived home in plenty of time to dine with Mr. and Mrs. Parish and have another quiet evening before I had to leave for New York City to take the midnight train for Washington.

It was gray and cool here yesterday and I spent the morning at a meeting of the state directors of the National Youth Administration.

THESE people have such an important and responsible piece of work to do. I am sure for many of them the adjustment to world developments during the past few weeks has been as difficult as it has been for the rest of us.

The world in which we all advocated peace and reason, suddenly turns into a world in which we must prepare grimly for defense. It is not easy to face, and yet the very people who believe in peace and reason must be the ones to take part in the changes of attitudes and of approach to new situations, or we lose the chance to preserve the things we hold dear for the future.

I had a most interesting visit the other day from a young man who is planning to make a tour this summer with a group from Harvard College.

DURING the trip, a real effort will be made to get in touch with the people of the countries they visit, which include Brazil, Uruguay and the Argentine.

It seems to me that this group will have an extraordinarily interesting and worth while summer vacation. I hope it will be the beginning of many such interchanges of hospitality between South and Central America and the United States.

Here, in our own country, there is another educational experiment, which I think of great value. It is called "Work Camps for America."

These camps develop young people in ways which today are especially valuable. They live, work and play together and have an opportunity to discuss and put into practice their concept of democracy.

In explaining their work, they say one thing which I think we need to keep before us—"the task of democracy in this generation is essentially the same, a call to work out basic spiritual values in terms of new threats and new oppositions. The only thing to do is to regenerate our democracy."

KATE SMITH JOKES OUT OF SHOW

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, June 18—"Those two Kate Smith jokes which Jimmy Durante pulled in 'Keep Off the Grass' have been yanked from the show," a member of the cast reports at the Beachcomber. "Miss Smith's representative threatened suit" . . . "Clare Boothe has a new show," an agent reveals at the 18 Club. "It's called 'War in the Ritz.'" . . . "I'm celebrating my 10th wedding anniversary next week," Eddie Davis, the writer, tells Eddie Davis, the cafe owner, at Leon and Eddie's. "Ten years ago I was a cab driver. I wore a high hat and drove my cab to my bride's home to take her family to the wedding. Then I became Eddie Cantor's gag writer, went to Hollywood, wrote George White's Scandals and now the new Jolson show. For our 10th anniversary we'll retrace that same cab ride, but with a driver up front" . . . "Tony Galento got a Father's Day gift from his son," states Harry Mendel, Galento's manager, at the Kit Kat. "The baby gave Tony a black eye by hitting him playfully."

"WE'RE FIXING UP our new home, in Gracie Square," Raymond Massey signs in Sardi's. "It makes me feel a bit like Nero—fiddling with a new house, while the world's burning" . . . "When Justice Frank Murphy calls upon Evalyn Walsh McLean's daughter," a Washington official informs at the Riviera, "he arrives in a beige-colored car and wears a suit and hat to match it" . . . "Warner Bros. recently made 'It All Came True,' a movie about me and my wife," Bill Hardey, at his Gay Nineties, tells Ted Husing. "They wanted me to sign some form of waiver. Mark Hellinger showed me a preview of the film and said: 'Don't worry, Bill. You're taken care of all right.' Then they showed me the film. In the opening shot—bang—I murder a man. But we all love Mark—so I signed the waiver."

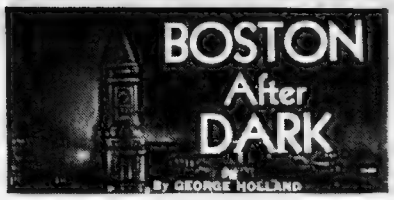
"MY APPLICATION will be accepted by the Canadian Ambulance Corps and I'll leave for England via Montreal," confides George Kelly, formerly of the Yacht Club Boys and now co-owner of the 48th St. Tavern. "They told me there were thousands of applications ahead of mine, but I got strong letters of recommendation and expect word soon" . . . George Raft, making his first visit to The Hurricane, the cafe in which he reputedly owns an interest, scours the place to find Mack "Killer" Gray, his bodyguard, but can't find him—and turns to watch the show. The first number unfolds, showing a tropical setting with native girls fanning a young man under a palm tree—Killer Gray.



THE NEAT SHOWING turned in by Clarence (Clare) Barnes when he lost, but honorably, to Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever in the 1938 election, was calculated to earn him a green light by the big-wigs of the G. O. P. state committee in the 1940 primaries . . This year, the Republicans hold high hopes of capturing this important office because no opponent of Paul Dever's vote-getting ability is anticipated . . (This is a trustworthy generalization because Mr. Dever alone stood off the Republican landslide in state-wide contests two years ago) . . . But Mr. Barnes, the "logical candidate" (and an old Eli athlete), is not getting the unanimous support his 1938 effort was thought to have rated.

AT THIS WRITING the young and able District Attorney Bradford of Middlesex County, and Norfolk County's prosecutor, Mr. Dewing, are dividing major support in the party's inner council . . . Mr. Barnes has a slew of friends and this item is merely a preliminary to a putsch on the G. O. P. high command HQ in Mr. Barnes' behalf . . . With another district attorney, Bill (Four Counties) Crossley in the running, the primary fight for the attorney-general's slab on the ballot promises to be the most hectic on the list . . . There may be one or more mergers before the voters go to the polls . . And prediction (also G. O. P.): Wendell L. Willkie on the third ballot will be named the Republican standard bearer . . . If the sweep isn't a decisive one, our own Congressman Joe Martin will win a great deal of attention.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Tommy Reynolds, the bandleader, has written a rhythm tune named "Once Over Lightly," which, because the title has been registered and copyrighted with the Will Hays office, the song publishers and the bureau of copyrights as part of a play, a moving picture and a song (not by Mr. Reynolds)—may have been an unwise choice of a title . . Speaking of recordings, Columbia is releasing an album of Mexican music embracing tunes from the pre-Aztec days to the present . . . When tests were played in the studio the other day, a mild sensation resulted when the chorus in one pre-Aztec song sounded exactly as if it were saying, "Oh, Trotsky, Oh" . . . A great deal of debate took place before it was decided that this was merely early Mexican dialect, and neither double-talk nor an attempt by the Trotskyites to bore (harmoniously) from within.

RAY SINATRA, THE BOSTON ARRANGER and outstanding exponent of jazz in pianoforte, is musical director of the famous St. Louis Municipal Opera . . . The chore represents the big chance friends of Ray have been sure would fall his way eventually . . Since the days he was doing the arrangements for the Jacques Renard broadcasts—when Bing Crosby used to skip his own rehearsals to listen to the Sinatra arrangements—Ray was seen as a potential luminary in music . . . His St. Louis assignment resulted from the great job he did in taking over the pit when Larry Schwab's ill-starred musicalization of "Sailor, Beware," was in trouble in Boston . . . Dick Berger, boss of the St. Louis Opera Company, owned a "piece" of that show.

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, June 18—Robert Benchley had barely unpacked his bags in New York when he received a wire telling him to return to Pollywood immediately for a featured role in Universal's "Hired Wife" which has Rosalind Russell, Brian Aherne and Virginia Bruce in top spots. Bob, whose M-G-M shorts are so tremendously popular, will play a very addled attorney. Producer-Director William Seiter plans to start the picture rolling any day now.

This isn't Bob's first appearance in a feature. He had some hilarious drunk scenes in "China Seas" and was also in "Broadway Melody of 1938," "Dancing Lady," Piccadilly Jim" and others.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

THE PLANE came roaring out of the west, flying very fast, very low. Suddenly a tiny figure dropped from the plane, hurtled downwards toward the bright fields and the dusty, poplar-lined roads. Then like some weird aerial flower a parachute burst into bloom above the little figure. Gently, the trooper drifted toward the earth . . .

One of the refugees, an old woman, screamed and pointed to the sky.

"Look!"

The lieutenant gazed skyward. He saw the parachutist disappearing behind a clump of trees. Instinctively, he drew his revolver.

"Keep moving along," he ordered the refugees. "I'll have to get that fellow."

A YOUNG French girl seized his arm.

"No, Lieutenant. Wait for your men. Don't go after him alone."

"I must," said the lieutenant.

"He'll kill you," said the girl. She began to cry.

The lieutenant shrugged.

"This is war, you know."

"No, no, don't go." begged the girl. But, already, the lieutenant was running back toward the trees where he had last seen the enemy soldier . . .

The blonde invader squinted at the approaching officer through the sights of his rifle. His finger tightened on the trigger. In another second he would be able to get a clear shot at the officer.

The lieutenant stiffened. He had seen sunlight flash on a rifle barrel. Swiftly, he leveled his revolver. They fired together. The roar of their guns blended into one single smashing report.

The invader pitched forward across a log, blood on his lips. Then the lieutenant staggered. The revolver dropped from his hand. He walked backwards two steps and fell flat.

IN A LITTLE WHILE the woods were still. The echoes of the shots died away. The invader groaned once and then was quiet.

Somewhere, up in the trees, a bird which had been frightened by the firing, chirped nervously. Then it flew to a higher branch and began to sing, clearly and sweetly.

The only other sound was a woman's distant weeping.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

I'M PLAYING a strange sort of a game with myself, these days—a game that may be equally good for what ails you. It started with that horror in Europe.

There have been wars before, hideous wars. But there's something about this particular hellishness which gets you where you live . . . undermines your faith in decency . . . makes a mock of all civilized codes . . . shakes your very sanity unless you can find some protection against it.

BY "protection" I don't mean some new fad with a Pollyanna philosophy. This monstrous thing can't be eliminated by chucking it under the chin and crying "Naughty! Naughty!" Any effective counter-offensive must be as virile and as tangible as an army maneuver, potent enough to conquer the deadliest blitzkrieg of doubt and dread, yet simple enough to be used by the most timid and inexperienced. And I think I've found just such a miracle worker. What's the recipe? Simply this:

AGAINST EACH NEW EVIDENCE OF BEASTLINESS OPPOSE SOME ACT OF BEAUTY.

Do you feel that the world has gone to the dogs and you might as well go with it? Then lay hold of some proof that Right goes marching on! Compare the sacrifice and selfless love of a Father Damien with the mad-dog selfishness of a Hitler; the warm humanity of an Abraham Lincoln with the cold-blooded viciousness of a Goebbels; the blessed service of a Pasteur with the mass murders of a Stalin.

Yes, it is true that Hitler's regimented robots are rolling over every obstacle today. But so did Alexander's in their time, and Caesar's, and Attila the Hun's! Then, too, people thought that decency had come to an end and the world was a burned out star. But it hadn't—and it wasn't. The armies passed, leaving their bloody trail. But hospitals and schools now stand where those trails once ran . . . and a new dream of peace and brotherly love stirs in hearts which once knew only lust for conquest and carnage.

GOD STILL IS IN HIS HEAVEN . . . AND IF ALL ISN'T RIGHT JUST YET, IT PRESENTLY WILL BE. GIVE THE SOUL TIME!

Oppose Beastliness with Beauty; it really works.

Salads for Health

By MARTHA LEE

Salad entrees are warm weather insurance against loss of appetites. And salads, when properly prepared, fill a definite health purpose. The leafy greens, fresh fruits and vegetables which make up the average salad contain not only valuable mineral salts but a liberal supply of the precious vitamins so essential to health.

Whatever type of salad is chosen its success depends, first of all, upon the quality and the crispness of the greens themselves. Lettuce, romaine, chicory, watercress, endive, young spinach, escarole and young cabbage are all good choices when they are plentiful.

PREPARING GREENS

When the greens come from the garden or the market they should be washed carefully and the wilted parts removed then they should be drained of all water. Head lettuce may be held under running water after the core has been cut from the center, if the leaves are to be separated before serving. The greens should then be dried, put in a covered pan, refrigerator dish, or bag in which they will crisp when chilled in the refrigerator.

Here are summer salad suggestions

GREEN BOWL SALAD

Rub a salad bowl with garlic. Put in it the following raw vegetables, all carefully dried: a few leaves of lettuce, a bunch of watercress, a cucumber thinly sliced a few scallions, radishes either whole or sliced, and chopped chives. Chicory, tender leaves of dandelions, and fresh cooked peas may also be added. Add well-seasoned French dressing and mix by tossing with a wooden fork and spoon. There should be no dressing left in the bottom of the bowl; use just enough to coat the greens.

TUNA FISH SALAD

2 cups flaked tuna fish
1 cup diced celery or cucumber
2 tbsp. chopped pimento or green pepper
½ cup salad dressing

Mix all the ingredients together and chill. Serve on lettuce garnished with extra dressing and slices of hard-cooked egg. Cooked peas and sliced olives make a good addition to the salad. This recipe makes 4 or 5 servings.

CHICKEN SALAD

2 cups cooked chicken
Salt and pepper
1 cup diced celery
⅓ cup mayonnaise
Lettuce
⅓ cup French dressing

The chicken should be free from skin, fat, and gristle, and should be cut in cubes ½ to ¾ inch in size. Sprinkle meat with salt and pepper, add celery and French dressing, and let chill half an hour or more. Serve on platter in lettuce cups and garnish with mayonnaise. Makes 6 servings.

MINTED FRUIT SALAD

¾ cup diced fresh pineapple
¾ cup sliced bananas
¾ cup cubed oranges or peaches
¾ cup diced cantaloupe
¾ cup marshmallows, quartered
1½ tbsp. powdered sugar
1½ cups ginger ale
½ cup lemon juice
¼ bunch mint, minced
Lettuce
Cantaloupe balls
Mint sprigs

Lightly combine pineapple, bananas, oranges or peaches, cantaloupe, marshmallows and sugar. Mix ginger ale and lemon juice, and pour over fruits; chill about 2 hours in refrigerator. To serve, drain off ginger ale, lightly mix into fruits and serve on lettuce; garnish with cantaloupe balls and sprigs of mint. Makes 6 servings.

Who Leads?

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please inform me if the host or hostess walks first when showing guests their house or property, regardless of sex or age? In a public dining room who should follow the head waiter? B.T.

Because of the greater convenience, it is best for the host or hostess to walk first when showing guests their house or property, regardless of the age or sex of the guests. And it is all made polite and gracious if the host or hostess says, as they start, "Do you mind if I lead the way?"

Lipstick With Cream Base

By ARLINE GOULD

YOUR LIPS need extra protection in the summertime . . . as well as your complexion . . . though usually you're pretty apt to forget about it until it's too late and then they also wrinkle and "crepe" and look older than they should!

Change to a lipstick made of a super-protective cream base . . . has an emollient as well as a lip rouge . . . and it's been a great favorite for years, it usually has been available only in the faintest of natural tints.

Such was the demand for a high fashion color . . . from those who knew its marvelous youth-retaining properties for fine lips . . . that it has just arrived in one of the clearest, truest "red-reds" you could possibly find . . . and it will be your choice for its magnetic brilliance and "alive-ness!"

Though the color is so vivid you'd never get a smeared or painted look, no matter how much you use because it is so flatteringly transparent.

You'll never know what you've been missing in lip loveliness until you've tried this new "red red" lipstick, on a youth-retaining cream base. Phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000 weekdays except Saturday, or write, inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope

Love

Untrue, Yet 'He Loves Her'

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been married ten years to my husband who says he loves me very much. After I found out he was running around with other women, we separated, but always he'd come up, beg me to quit working and come back to him. I listen, and two weeks before he was out again.

He claims he can't help it. I asked him if he couldn't look ahead to the time he would want a good wife instead of running after cheap women. He still insists on his right to do this, but wants me to stay with him.

He's very good to me and I love him. He gives me money, clothes, presents. He says I'm the best and he loves me, but I feel I should leave him.

UNHAPPY.

"Hello, Pug!"

By Hollis Starnes

NO ONE ever seemed to know exactly how Puggy first attached himself to the Times Square News Stand. Dave Farley, the big fellow who runs the place, when pressed for Puggy's history with this Broadway service, which has delivered newspapers to theatrical offices for a score of years, said: "One morning he was just here. Must have come in with a bundle of papers."

The Cast of Characters in "Hello, Pug!"

PUGGY, who delivers newspapers to press agents and knows something of the boxgame.

EVAN EAGAN, a new Broadway actor trying to make a comeback.

Puggy looked strong, though he was a little fellow. His nose, ears and hands, all of which showed signs of breakage in battle, betrayed his past. He had the catlike, graceful tread of a boxer, too. He was husky and willing, and said he knew the Broadway district.

"What's your name?" asked the boss.

"Call me Pug," he replied. There was nothing else, as a matter of fact, that he could possibly have been called.

When he first came, Pug did what he was told to do in the receiving room, lifting and hauling, wrapping and untying great bundles of newspapers as they arrived, edition after edition. In one of his rare self-revelations, he said one day that he liked outdoor work. Winter was coming on, and the lad who delivered the Broadway route was glad to change places with Puggy.

He was given a list of customers, mostly the press agents of Broadway producers. His job, he was told, was to get all the papers every day into the hands of these knights of the press. Their jobs largely depended on following the news as it came off the press—watching the result of their own handiwork in the theater pages, and seeing what their colleagues were up to. There were about fifty names on Puggy's list and allof them, he was informed, expected their papers first. It wasn't so bad in the morning, as few of them ever got around to their offices before eleven. But if the early afternoon editions were not in their hands before they set out for lunch at Saidi's or Algonquin—!

'Jes' let one o' them Broadway mugs start givin' me an argument'" warned Puggy and put up his fists.

On his first appearance in a theater office, he frightened a young lady receptionist half out of her wits. She thought he was a holdup man, or an actor made up for a "Dead End" role. However on this street of rapid adjustment to types, Puggy soon became a familiar figure. Hatless, in his white sweat shirt, blue slacks and sneakers, obvious relics of the ring atmosphere, he could crash into conferences and break into sanctums with more ease than any man in the district.

"AND NOW WHAT?"

To a producer's office where one of Broadway's highest paid publicity men called Puggy "old pal," he journeyed one Saturday afternoon to deliver some extra papers on a special assignment.

"Here's the situation, Pug," the press man had told him. "We've got this movie star going to make a Broadway comeback. You've seen him——" and he mentioned one of the big names in the screen world, which we will call Evan Eagan, though that is not his name. "Naturally I wanted to squeeze all the space I could on that piece of news."

"You did," said Puggy.

"An now what?" mourned the publicity chief. "Egan throws a fit—didn't want anything made of his return. Thought he could sneak in and open without a line of press."

"Can't be done," observed Puggy.

"Right. I feel sorry for the poor guy though, at that. He thinks the Broadway critics are gunning for him."

"Prob'ly are," said Puggy.

"They don't if you're good—and he is. But what does he do? Sees a couple of papers where I got the biggest break, and goes off on a bat. Wants to call the whole Broadway deal off. Rehearsals are due to start Monday, and if he doesn't show up, the boss is going to blame me."

"That's bad," said Puggy.

"He has a date with me here at four," said the press man, "but I've got a hunch he'll never show. They say when he starts on a binge he's off for a month."

"Gee!" whistled Puggy.

"Anyhow, have Dave dig me up an extra set of Thursday's papers, there's a good guy, and have them over here by four."

"Sure," said Puggy.

At a quarter of four he arrived with his bundle. The outer office was deserted and he walked as usual into the press office without knocking. Huddled in a corner, with his eyes closed and a painful expression on his handsome features, sat Hollywood's prize exhibit, Evan Eagan.

Puggy stared. This fellow was one of the few movie stars he'd ever seen in a fight sequence he could sit through. Most movie fights sent Puggy out of his balcony seat groaning or snorting. But Eagan, though an amateur, had form. His footwork was elegant—and Pug had been trained in the theory that sly footwork does it. The couple of fight scenes Puggy had seen Egan do showed more than clever coaching from the sidelines while the cameras clicked. This fellow was really good.

"HELLO, PUG"

Evan Eagan opened his eyes, which was an effort, and beheld Puggy. He had not trained laboriously for his movie bouts without gaining some sense of a fighter's face and form and stance. He grinned and saluted: "Hello, pug."

"Hello, pug," returned Puggy and put out his battered right. "You're O. K. yourself, for an amateur. Where'd you get your footwork?"

"Once I was in Detroit with a show when Young Stribling was training. He showed me."

"You learned good."

"Thanks." Eagan tried to get onto the well-trained extremities, but gave up the idea. "Can't even stand on 'em now," he lamented.

"Pugs gotta lay off booze," said Puggy sagely.

"I been on the wagon now for ten months." Eagan defended. "Promised my girl. Thought I was off the stuff for good—till Broadway got me down."

"Don't let it," advised Puggy.

"Been away from here six years," reviewed Eagan. "Critics didn't think I was so hot when I left. Now I've got this Coast buildup to live down. If I'm not good in this show they'll pan me."

"Be good," said Puggy.

"I'm scared. Think I'll duck now before the count starts."

"Quitter, huh?" Puggy laid down the papers he had brought.

"All this newspaper stuff," said Eagan, "has me worried. As to the acting job, I can get by."

Puggy began turning up the drama pages. "You didn't get so much," he said. "Same break they all get."

Eagan managed to find his feet. "Say, you fight around here?"

"Not any more," said Pug. "Too many gorillas." He sighed. "Be a great game if it wasn't such a racket."

"What else do you do?"

"Work a newspaper route. Nights I go to a gym and work out. Sort of a club. Some old pugs, my old man among 'em, and some young kids that might be good some day. Stage our own matches. No gate—no gorillas."

PUGGY PENS HATE

"Sounds swell! When you going up there?"

"Right now."

"I left a bunch of fellers at a bar down the block," said Evan Eagan, "or I'd like to see that place."

"Better come on with me," said Puggy. "You know the old saying, 'Pugs should stick together.' You can't do any real work today—but we could sweat that booze out of you."

"Good idea," said the star meekly. "I feel like a heel."

"We'll give you a good hard week-end."

Evan Eagan straightened himself. "O. K.," he said. "But what about this press feller?"

Puggy had seated himself at that gentlemen's mahogany desk, laboriously printing a note. "How's this?" he asked and held it up.

"HE'S WITH ME, DON'T WORRY I WILL DELIVER HIM MONDAY TO REHURSEL—PUGGY"

was what Evan Eagan read. He added his own signature with a flourish. "Pugs should stick together," he said, and the pair left arm in arm. . . .

On the opening night of the show, Puggy sat down front and wore his new tuxedo. At 3 a. m., still in his dress clothes, he delivered a set of early morning papers to Evan Eagan. "If they're bad," he said, "let's go after those guys. We could do it."

But the notices were all good.

The End.

Don't miss tomorrow's amusing story. The title is "Shotput in Duke's Teeth."

"I'm scared," Eagan said. "Think I'll duck now before the count starts."

Boy Feud Theory In Maine Death

LEWISTON, Me., June 18—Authorities today turned to the theory that 12-year-old Bertland Vachon, found dying by the roadside, Thursday morning, was victim of a boyhood feud, with a playmate.

Police announced that they had abandoned the theory that he had been struck by a street car, although they believed it was quite possible he may have been hit by a motorist and his body dumped over an embankment.

The theory that young Vachon may have died as a result of a fight was probed by Police Capt. Joseph Picard, who stated he had learned that the boy and an older playmate had quarrelled several days before his death.

The Vachon boy died at St. Mary's Hospital of a fractured skull shortly after he was found dying in tall grass a few feet off the road.

AUSTEN LAKE

Godoy Keeps Date With Black Fate

WELL HERE WE GO AGAIN! I was only a pee-wee in pinafores when Blondin, the brash cobweb walker, teetered over Niagara's gorge on a slack wire with a man on his back. I was somewhat older when Mrs. Bertha Mullins had herself sealed in a steel tub and floated over the brink of the horseshoe falls. But I can recall as a Buffalo grade schoolboy, seeing Lincoln Beachy fly a flimsy contraption that looked like an enlarged egg-crate and dip under the International Bridge among the treacherous air currents of the Niagara Rapids and Whirlpool to crash at a later date.

AUSTEN LAKE

And, having a morbid imagination about such people, I used to project myself, in fancy, into the skins of such daring folk and suffer exquisite shivers and quakes without taking any of the risks

So I am competent now to exchange places with Arturo Godoy, the chillable Chilian, when he crawls through the ringropes for his fight with Joe Louis at New York Thursday night. Yes! I know that Art stayed verticle with Joe last winter. But so did Max Schmeling and so did Bob Pastor in their first collisions, and look what happened to both in their second. They wound up on the flat of their briskets, one with a fractured vertebra and tuther with a collosal headache and a ten-day paralysis of the chin.

So I am giving Godoy credit for intelligence, or at least enough to realize the lethal dangers that confront him, although I doubt that he is either as impressionable as Schmeling or as cautious as Pastor, both of whom sniffed Louis's ether and went down, muddle-headed and ripped about the mouth.

I would venture that Godoy, who has average wit, will feel his innards sucked up against his lungs and experience a heady lethargy from the blood pounding in his brain. He should, according to physiological law, have sensations of dreamy drowsiness and a yearning to go home and sleep.

I KNOW THIS ABOUT LOUIS: That those who fight him, fight not merely a coffee-colored phantom with a wax-mask and explosive fists, but they face mystery, presentiment, self-doubt and a supernal myth. So that men like Sharkey, Baer, Carnera, Schmeling (in his second fight), who had fought more than fifty fights each without fear or tremor, confessed that they had felt unexplainably numb, futile and empty on facing Louis.

I have only seen three of Louis's opponents stand looking him squarely in the eye as the buff Negro listened to the referee recite the ring rules. Schmeling (the first time), Jimmy Braddock and Tony Galento did it. But the others have preserved the hangdog sullenness of a school dunce being admonished by the teacher, eyes focused on their navels and hugging their kimonos over shoulder like elderly ladies in a drafty parlor.

Baer tried a novelty while Referee Art Donovan droned his instructions like a preacher reading the marriage service, by stretching his rubbery features in a grin that was intended to convey confidence but only became a pitiful smirk which faded as quickly as it came. And before him Carnera, above the ripples of muscle and sleek upholstery of his naked torso, had looked like a mummified skull—his prognatheous jaw withered, his lips drawn away from his teeth, his sallow skin stretched tight as a drumhead across his cheek bones.

GALENTO LOOKED CALMEST OF ALL, except for repeated licking of his pouting lips and an over-courteous inclination of the head.

STENGEL LAUDS INFIELD AS BEES CLIMB TO SIXTH

By BILL GRIMES

"So that guy Frisch was going to pin my big ears back against my skull," cammented Manager Casey Stengel of the Bees this morning as he was sipping his orange juice at the Hotel Myles Standish.

"He allowed himself to get all swelled up over the double header his Bucs took from the Giants. Apparently, it slipped his mind that the Bees had taken four out of six decisions before they knocked him and his pirates for a coupig of loops yesterday.

"I've been trying to tell you experts that I've got a club in the making this year, which is going to be tough for any National League outfit to beat before the close of the season. All that we need is the type of pitching that Dick Erickson and Joe Sullivan turned in against the Cubs and a few more exhibitions, just as Bill Posedel and Al Piechota came up with yesterday and we'll be right there with the money boys.

"As you knew, the deadline for trade was midnight last Saturday. And, with that thought in mind, you should know that there's no reason for me telling anyone that I wouldn't swap Hassett, Rowell, Miller or Sisti for any infielder in the National League. They are youngsters and are coming."

"LAZYBONES, SITTING IN THE SUN"—Debs Garms, one of the many ex-Bees, now Pirates, seems to be taking it easy, but he's only waiting batting practise at the Hive. Debs contributed a pinch-hit double during the washday twin bill, but his mates couldn't tie his effort often enough. The Bees won both games, climbed to sixth.

"There isn't a shortstop in either major league that compares favorably with Miller. He's sensational and before we run out of games this season, he'll be well up in the .300 class. As a fielder, Miller will make plays that no other shortstop would come close to starting.

"And, now let's take a peek at Hassett. Possibly there are a few first basemen who are more of the 'Fancy Dan' type and a bird like Mize has more power than Buddy. But, Hassett is on those bases more than most of the initial sackers and he's in a class by himself when it comes to laying down bunts, whether the pitches are low or high. In fact, he's one of the few ball players I've seen who can lay down a bunt on a high pitch.

BEST AT HOT CORNER

"As for Sisti and Rowell, they are my boys. Young Sisti is only two years out of high school and has but a year and a half of Class A ball under is belt. I must admit that I didn't give the boy a fair break when I tried to convert him into a major league second baseman. The keystone sack is the toughest spot in the infield. There are so many plays that a second sacker must be able to make that it requires years of service to master that position.

"I was told that Sisti couldn't play either short or third. Don't you believe it. He can play either position to the queen's taste. How does he look to you experts at the hot corner? Pretty good, hey? Well, I'll say he does. And,

Sox Gun for Auker In St. Louis Opener

ST. LOUIS, June 18.—Riding high, wide and handsome on a victory chariot of six straight games, four from the pesky White Sox of Chicago, the Red Sox are today planning on blasting into extinction one Eldon Auker to make it win No. 7.

There's a gent the Hose have a real peeve against. After looking like a candidate for the Olympets while twirling for the Sox last year, Auker turned around and made his old teammates look like so many pushovers on his last Hub visit.

It was his win plus the 14 inning tilt the Brownies 'neat them that prevented the Cronnites from leaving Boston with a substantial lead in the American league race, and the Sox, like those mountain moonshiners, ain't a fergettin'.

OSTIE GET CALL

Mahatma Cronin communed with the occult while training over from Chicago and resultantly has nominated Fritz Ostermuller to twirl against Eldon. Herr Ostie has yet to fashion a win and Joe is hoping that today is Der Tag.

Micky Harris was scheduled to go. It is now Cronin's intention to use the younger portsider, with Calehouse, in Thursday's doubleheader. Hash will bend them in tomorrow's tilt.

A long time ago—last week—it was the custom to mention who was being held in reserve when referring to the starting Red Sox pitchers. But no longer.

The lads who do the looping are at last working with approximately the same degree of efficiency they did in spring training when they were hailed as the best looking lot of Red Sox pitchers since Harry Frazee jobbed us.

NEEDED GOOD WEATHER

Since the lambasters of Landsdowne st. wended westward Lefty Grove is the only pitcher who failed to finish what he started. In Lefty's case it wasn't that he was weak, but that his opponent Ted Lyons was extra strong. Strong, that is, until the stretch, when Williams rescued that particular ball game with a home run.

Cronin maintained all along that it was only the early season weather that was responsible for the failure of the Sox hurling staff. Its performance of late tends to bear him out.

Weather-man, keep on percolating.

YANKS WON'T WIN, SAYS 'OLD FOX'

By The Associated Press

Strange sights: Cardinal pitchers actually going the distance these days . . . Baron Boots Poffenberger, who traded beers for cheers, is collecting dividends down in the Southern Association. He has won 10 games on June 12 and at that rate stands to win about 30 games for Nashville . . . Bob Quinn says parting with Al Lopez was his hardest job in 50 years in baseball.

* * *

"Old Fox" Clark Griffith sure likes to take the joy out of life for New York fans . . . First, he predicts the Yanks won't win again . . . Now he says Medwick coming to the Dodgers was just another baseball deal—that Joe isn't the difference between a pretty good team and a flag.

* * *

The Yanks have got to step on it, at that. Some of the dopsters have figured it out they'll have to win seven of every ten remaining games to cop for the fifth time in a row . . . Carl Hubbell's sister, Mildred, hurls for an Oklahoma soft ball team and, like her brother, does it from the port side.

* * *

The Southern Association is a left-hand hitters' league—only four right-hand batters have won the championship in more than 10 years . . . Lack of consistency seems to be one of the Yanks troubles. Charlie Ruffing, for instance, has yet to win two games in a row . . . Explaining his failure to win his debut game with the Brooks, Curt Davis said: "For a few moments, I forgot where I was . . . when the first two batters hit safely and no pitcher rushed out to relieve me, I became disconcerted and thought I was back in St. Louis."

* * *

Well, we're glad the Cleveland uprising is over . . . Personally, we never could decide whether Oscar was giving the Indians Vitts, or throwing too many himself.

Huskies 7-5 Choice

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 18 (AP) — The University of Washington varsity crew maintained the Hudson River status quo by continuing as betting choice for today's 43d regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association.

e Huskies or the University of California have dominated the betting in this four-mile classic on an average of four times out of five through the last 15 years. Rarely h e they let their supporters down.

HUSKIES 7-5 CHOICE

When Washington ties up to its stake boat some time around 4 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) this afternoon, its sophomore-stroked boatload is expected to be the 7-5 favorite.

Lined up next to the Huskies in the outside, or far eastern lane, will be California, record-breaking winner a year ago and this time joint second choice with Cornell at 2 to 1.

Columbia will be 4 to 1, Syracuse 5 to 1, Navy, last winner for the East in 1938, 8 to 1, and Wisconsin and Princeton follow underdogs at 20 to 1.

BEAT CALIFORNIA

Washington, two lengths winner over California in April, has gained its pre-eminence in spite of familiar pessimism on the part of Coach Al Ulbrickson.

Complaining first about the fact he didn't have time enough to work his men on the Hudson itself — th. 've been rowing intermittently since last fall—Gloomy Al today predicted the whole fleet would have a tough time getting started on time tomorrow.

"Don't know why they moved up those times," he grumbled. "If there's any wind at all, the river'll be lumpiest right about then. If there isn't any wind and the sun's out, then that'll be the hottest part of the day."

THREE YEARS AGO—Carl Hubbell, Giants, driven from mound for sixth successive time, losing 5-3 to Cincinnati.

FIVE YEARS AGO — Twenty Grand, owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney, finished seventh in first race in England.

LITTLE, BUT OH, MY!—Columbia's light varsity crew will whirl along like this as the evening shadows curtain the Hudson today, carrying the hopes of the East against much bigger, more powerful western foes. The Lions are sentimental favorites in the Poughkeepsie four-mile grind because (A) their handful of oarsmen work under great difficulties, (B) their coach, Hubie Glendon, is a most popular sports teacher, (C) they've given away tons of weight to foes this year, yet have an almost perfect record. They're Cox Fraser, Stroke Fremd, Bower, Perrcon, Grunow, Wheeler, Cordes, Capt. Remmer and Bow Keugten.

Final Schooling For Revere Dogs

All of the racing greyhounds entered for the Wonderland summer meeting commencement next Monday, will be put through their final schooling paces this week.

Before Saturday, the entire roster will have three official schoolings, all of which will appear on the coming night's program. The schooling events will shift from the afternoon to the evening on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

While the State Racing Commission only requires two schoolings, Wonderland this year decided to make it three, so that the long distance thoroughbreds can be clocked over the 5-16 course, where heretofore, all the preliminary events went over the futurity distance.

AUSTEN LAKE SAYS:

somewhat as Mayor Maurice Tobin leans his studious, but perhaps unhearing ears, to a ward politician's lament. And Tony fought a sturdy fight, yet wound up sprawled belly uppermost, like a kitchen cockroach after its first sniff of Flit.

I imagine that the first glimpse that any fighter has of Louis is when he stops shuffling in the corner resin and turns with the first gong to peep through his outstretched gloves. For, except Galento, who peered curiously at Louis while waiting the bell, somewhat like a giant bullfrog, all of the Negro's rivals have kept their necks bent like penitents in an attitude of prayer. Though Louis' droopy lidded eyes frequently measure his men as he sits waiting, with the same detached interest that a Nazi headsman might survey his next victim, few that I can recall have ever looked toward the impassive Negro from the moment of entering the ring.

I don't think that Godoy's bobbing, weaving, crab walking style will save him this time. In fact his previous fight was less of a fistic collision than it was a comic rhumba with Arturo frequently crouched on all fours, like a sprinter on his mark. His one object was to avoid punishment, not to give it.

Being thrifty and economical as only a Latin can Godoy is reckoned wealthy according to his country's standards. He does not have to fight and could be living securely on his pampas. Yet he is offering himself as a fistic guinea pig again for a few minutes to carry off some more lovely American dollars to the amount of $15,000. Which shows you there are still those who, at a price, will teeter over Niagara Falls on a slack wire or will seal themselves in a steel barrell and be shoved off the brink of the Horseshoe falls.

Softball Lid Lifted Thursday

With the lid about to be lifted on the Girls' New England Softball League on Thursday evening at the Garden, the Olympets and Tele-Tech hostess will be back at full strength.

It is said for the Olympets that they have all hands ready, because in facing the Burnham Brady Girls of Hartford, the local team is meeting their most feared rivals.

The pressure of the Nutmegs Club will not be so intensive however. Their opponents, the Worcester Girls, are not considered the best team in the new loop, and have already been turned back by the Poles once this season. In spite of that defeat, the Heart-of-the-Commonwealth team is still the Massachusetts title-holders, and must be given some consideration.

Wilson Picks $17.40 Horse

Dave Wilson, ace turf handicapper of the Boston American-Sunday Advertiser, gave his followers three more winners on the Bunker Hill Day card at Suffolk Downs.

Lost Gold in the first race was the first Wilson winner and returned to its backers $6.40, $3.80 and $3.00. Blue Fair, an odd on favorite, came through for Wilson in the fourth race and Brown Bomb hit the wire first in the seventh race to complete Wilson's trio and return the handsome price of $17.40, $7.60 and $5.20.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

FRANCIS OUIMET, Jesse Guilford, Fred Wright and Bobby Jones will compete in a special golf match at one of the local links under the direction of Freddy Cochrane in aid of the Red Cross . . . Freddy will be in town tomorrow to make the necessary arrangements . . . During the World War, golfers raised considerable money for relief work abroad, and they intend to do so again.

BOBBY JONES

I dropped in at The Scituate Golf Club to prove to Jack Leary that I am still a 100 golfer . . . The course was in excellent condition, and a large number of people took advantage of the good weather to improve their game . . . Jack Leary says there has been a pickup in attendance at golf clubs this season . . . The Scituate pro asked me to say hello for him to Bill Grimes.

The ideal weather yesterday and on Saturday gave the attendance and mutuel figures at Suffolk Downs a lift . . . Bruce Wetmore was more pleased with the fine racing than he was with the large attendance and mutuel handle . . . Bruce is smart enough to realize that if the racing is good everything else will take care of itself . . . Charley McLennan made good his promise to get the best horses for Suffolk Downs, and now that the track conditions have improved the top stables are entering their stars.

Lou Smith is at Suffolk Downs each day lining up horses for Rockingham Park that steps into the New England racing picture with a 24-day meeting starting on July 28 . . . John Turner is Racing Secretary at the Salem, N. H., track.

PRESIDENT ALVA BRADLEY and the directors of the Cleveland Indians displayed good judgment in refusing to oust Oscar Vitt as manager because the latter's fiery tactics met with disfavor from Bob Feller, Hal Trosky and others of his players . . . If Bradley had surrendered to the player group, he might just as well have turned over the entire control of the club to them.

It was ridiculous for ball players to object to a manager because he rode them a bit while they were in competition, and didn't always use choice English . . . Vitt has done much to give Cleveland a good ball club, and it would be a sorry state of affairs if a capable pilot was penalized for trying.

The Cleveland players should toughen themselves up to a point where they can take a caustic remark from a fighting leader . . . They should realize that aggressiveness is needed to win in any sport and that one should not be criticized for trying.

Among other things the Cleveland players stated Vitt was nervous while on the bench during a game . . . If Oscar wasn't interested in winning, he would not have been jittery . . . George Stallings, who managed the Braves to the world's championship in 1914, was one of the most nervous pilots to ever direct a ball club . . . Stallings would wear the seat out of his trousers sliding along the bench during a critical game . . . The "Miracle Man" would put the blast on his players when they made glaring errors . . . During a game he was literally a wild man . . . Stallings would keep shifting his lineup as he played percentage baseball to win.

Johnny Evers was on the 1914 Braves, and he was not the mildest person under fire . . . Evers frequently rode Rabbit Maranville severely when the latter, as a young ball player, did the wrong thing . . . The Rabbit made Evers his baseball hero, took his advice, and never made the same mistake twice . . . This is why Maranville developed into one of the greatest shortstops in baseball.

Off the playing field Stallings and Evers were two of the mildest characters one could wish to meet, and they would joke about some of the things they did and said while a game was in progress . . . Fred Mitchell of Newton was a coach with the Braves in the days of Stallings and Evers . . . He was the great peace maker when some player got ruffled by a blast from Stallings or Evers . . . Perhaps Oscar Vitt and the Cleveland club would do better if they had a type of experienced veteran like Mitchell around to adjust family disputes.

THEY ARE GOING to give a special night to Mr. Basketball, namely, Frank "Snappy" O'Connell at the South End Municipal Building on Thursday evening, June 27 . . . Active committees have been appointed, and it is a certainty that the affair will be a big success . . . "Snappy" was a member of the old Fitton A. C. five . . . He later played with and managed numerous crack teams . . . In recent years "Snappy" has not been in the best of health, but he has carried on with the same spirit that made him so successful as an athlete.

Sibby Sisti of the Bees has a natural batting form, and should develop into one of the best hitters in the National League . . . Sisti has a powerful throwing arm, covers considerable ground, while his infield play will keep improving with experience.

Connors Heads Gansett Board

Jamee H. Connors of Boston was the only new face in the Narragansett Racing Association today after the annual stockholders meeting was held yesterday at the race track.

Connors was elected chairman of the board of directors, replacing Morgan Belmont of New York who was elected as a member of the board for the next three years along with Judge James E. Dooley and Raymond J. McMahon.

A unanimous vote returned president James E. Dooley, vice-president Albert H. Daley, treasurer Ernest H. Davison, assistant treasurer and comptroller Michael Regan, and secretary and general counsel Raymond J. McMahon to office.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

MENTION OF Director Sinatra recalls the famous George Copeland, Boston native and credited with being a great performer on the piano of Claude Achille Debussy, the French composer who died several months before the armistice of the World War . . . The musical world was surprised the past winter when Mr. Copeland invited Ray to play the second piano in a two-piano recording of Debussy's "Black and White" . . . Mr. Sinatra's ability as an interpreter of Gershwin or Cole Porter was conceded widely, but his virtuosity in the classics was unsuspected . . . The Debussy record, and another, a Spanish item, were very successful . . . But we started to suggest that perhaps Mr. Copeland has a swell story to tell a feature writer—if he'll talk.

THE BOSTON ARTIST lived with Debussy many years ago, and later a very wealthy American patron made it possible for him to occup a lovely villa on a shore of the Lake of Majorca in Spain . . . Flanked by a half-dozen servants, Mr. Copeland lived and worked in Spain up to and through the revolution . . . The Franco government then decided that the Bostonian should move—to America . . . The decision carried a suggestion that the move be made without carrying any currency out of the country.

THE FAMOUS PIANIST protested, and was about to appeal further, probably to Washington . . . The atmosphere grew very hostile at this point . . . That village on the lake was wanted . . . Well, Mr. Copeland, we hear, is residing on Commonwealth ave. . . . The Italian Ambassador's belongings were being moved in as the Copeland trunks were moving out. (Note: In singling out Mr. Copeland as an outstanding exponent of Debussy, we do not wish to seem to neglect another Bostonian, the superior Henry Levine . . . His performances of the great Frenchman's works, according to the critics, are unsurpassed.)

THE KEITH-BOSTON'S BOSS, Harry McDonald, plans to make a spirited competition of the rivalry between his theater and the Metropolitan in lining up a program of "name" shows (in the flesh) for next season . . . The Met got the jump by signing Bob Hope.

Keats Sweeps Aqueduct Card

Fred Keats, New York handicapper for the Daily Record and Evening American, swept the card at Aqueduct yesterday, picking the winners of all seven races. It was the second time in several years that Keats scored with a grand slam. His winners and prices were: React $6.50, Pharo Warrior $3.50, Learned 4.60, The Fiend $11.50, Bayview $5, Brown Slave $15.30, and Michigan Flyer $11. Selections of Keats, top handicapper in the New York field, appear in the Daily Record each day and his graded handicaps appear exclusively in the Green Race Special of the Evening American.

YALE BULLDOG FAVORED TO CLAW HARVARD

PLOTTING ELI WOE—Capt. Tom Healey of Harvard, left, and Coach Floyd Stahl plan to start the Yale series today at New Haven with a victory. Healey, brilliant student and all around athlete, winds up his Crimson sports career in this series. He intends to help pitch his team to a series sweep for a smashing climax.

HOMER—Torby Macdonald, Crimson football leader and track star, was jinxed out of his chance to win All America rating last fall. He's done a great job for Harvard on the track and diamond this spring. You may be sure his heavy hitting and competent center fielding are a major headache to the Yales.

Crimsons Rely on Sophomore Ace To Grab Opening Game From Blues

By SAM BROGNA

With nothing more at stake than to settle a personal score, Yale's strong varsity baseball team was to meet Harvard today at New London in the opening game of the 70th annual three-game series between these traditional rivals.

Showing a much better record for the season than the Crimson who have been able to win only six of twenty-three contests, the Blue has been installed a strong favorite to not only win the opening clash today but also tomorrow's engagement which will be played before the alumni at Soldier's Field, Cambridge, following the Class Day exercises at the Harvard Stadium.

SHOULD REVERSE '39 RESULTS

If they are successful in turning back the Crimson, which they should have little difficulty in doing, they will even last year's score when the sons of John Harvard made the Bulldogs eat the dust three consecutive times.

The third and last game will be played at New London Friday before the "H" and "Y" crews take to the waters of the Thames for the annual regatta.

The Cantabs are entering today's fray with one of their poorest seasons in many years. Coach Stahl's boys had all they could do staying out of the cellar of the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League this year and even if they do drop three straight to the Eli, the best they can do is share the cellar birth with Penn.

HARVARD DEPENDS ON SOPH

With the Blue, it was a different story. They won fourteen while dropping nine, but, in league competition, they broke even in 10 starts and are now deadlocked with Princeton for fourth place.

For mound selections today, Harvard is counting on Burgy Ayers, a sophomore performer who started the season at third base, Coach Joey Wood is expected to counter with Ted Harrison, left handed pitcher-outfielder who is third on the list for the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League's individual batting championship with a mark of 351.

LET'S GO FISHING!

Good Catches Made Around Hog Island

By DARK MONTREAL

Note to Dr. Anthony Macaluso, West Newton:

I was especially interested in your letter since I fished in that spot the same night you were there and believe I saw you come ashore. Although I had seven striped bass I was not the chap who offered, for $10, to show you where you might catch one.

The description of the rip you fished seems to indicate a favorite spot and I don't understand why you failed to connect. Sometimes when the tide is running very fast, the fish are not surface feeding and your bait doesn't get down to them, unless you either put on a small sinker or fish an extremely long line. The long line is okay if you are using a heavy enough rod so you can set your fish very hard on the strike.

USED NO. 3 HOOK

Also, I have had more luck this year using a No. 3 hook, which is comparatively small, a leader testing no more than 20 pounds and baiting either two or three good sized worms, pulling an inch or two of one right up over the eye of the hook.

Of course, all that may be an old story to you but if it isn't and if I can be of service, call me on the phone.

A good many boats coming into the Buzzards Bay liveries with fish are making their catches outside in the vicinity of Hog Island and Mashnee Island but if you don't know that water I wouldn't prospect it without a guide except on a very calm day.

Note to Capt. Ray Snyder, Chicopee:

Thank you for your invitation. Sorry I can't share the fishing radio broadcast with you, but Springfield is quite a long distance and I don't get there very often. Give my regards to Jack Brawley on the New York American.

* * *

Note to Warren Carlisle, Pawtucket:

That Plymouth pollock derby is going strong and you should certainly enter a team if you're interested. There are plenty of fish. Address William Dupree at the Plymouth bait shop for full details, or write to any of the fishing boat captains.

Note to Mrs. Raymond Adams, Worcester:

It's true that the Rangely Lake season is very late but some good catches are now being made, and by some of your not distant neighbors. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Abbe, of Longmeadow, took three good salmon at Haines Landing, Moosehookmeguntic; D. A. Donahue, J. Norman Anderson and E. A. Conant, all of Methuen, killed seven salmon and four trout apiece at the same place. This is all fly fishing, as you probably are aware.

* * *

A lot of tuna fishing enthusiasts turned out at Kennebunkport over the week-end to inspect the new Bluefin II recently completed for ace bluefin angler Henry Strater of Ogunquit. Now there is a boat. Thirty-five feet long she has every feature that makes her a real "fishing machine." In designing the craft purely for tuna fishing Strater used all of the knowledge that he has gained through years of stalking the bluefins and also inspected boats all along the coast from Maine to Florida for additional ideas.

CAN DO 16 KNOTS

She had topside dual controls, a flying bridge, a special chain and is capable of making 16 knots. Capable of comfortably sleeping three the craft has every convenience and Strater is anxiously awaiting for the fish to strike the coast so that he can really try her out. Even the paint is of a new and original hue. After considerable experimenting Strater, who is an artist, mixed up a patch of "tuna back blue" for the painters.

Bluefin II will have to be good to equal the record of Bluefin I from which Strater took 97 fish over a period of several years. That craft has been sold to veteran angler and big game hunter Glenroy W. Scott of Keene, N. H., who will sail her out of Kennebunkport.

BEST ABOUT JULY 15

Scott who has many records to his credit will try the Maine tuna for the first time and believes that the fishing in Casco Bay and off Ogonquit is the best to be found anywhere.

The fish are due to reach the coast anytime after the first of July and fishing will be at its best from July 15 until the last of August.

Phillip R. Goodwin of Augusta took a 7½-pound squaretail trout out of Rangeley Lake to make "The One That Didn't Get Away Club."

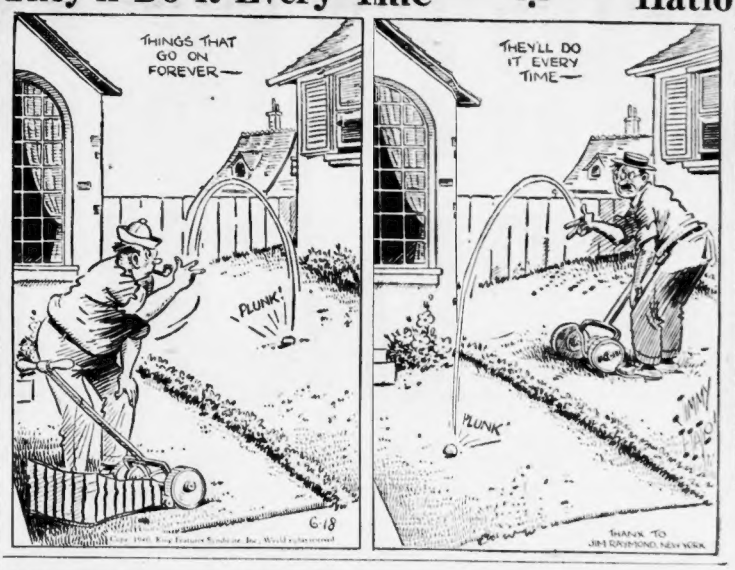
They'll Do It Every Time -:- Hatlo



STENGEL LAUDS CLIMBING BEES

how does he look at the bat since we returned from that last trip? Not bad, hey?

"Young Sisti is a powerfully built kid. He's strong and very agile. And, he has plenty of intestinal fortitude. It requires "guts" to make the grade in the majors. I knew that Sisti had them. Yet, I couldn't understand why he was unable to get more of a punch with the bat.

QUICK AS A CAT

"During the two months we were in the south, Sisti had received so much advice concerning how to play second base that I hesitated to offer any suggestions about his hitting. Before we started north early in April, Sisti began to slip. I'm still convinced that he wore himself down by working too strenuously under the hot Florida sun. So I decided to lay him off. Then, when Tony Cuccinello injured his leg, I shifted Sisti over to third base and I knew immediately that that was his position. He covers more ground than any hot corner guardian in either major league. He's a cat on his feet and if you doubt me think back and see how many balls have gone between him and Eddie Miller.

"A week ago last Sunday I took charge of Sisti. I got him over in a corner of Wrigley Field and told him how I wanted him to hit. I told him to hit off his right leg, keep his arms away from his body and to start his back swing with a stiff left arm. Well, he was hitting for .164 ten days ago and now he's up around the .230 or .235 mark and looking better every day. If he can hit .2.., he'll be a stand out for he has everything and is one of the few kids I've ever had who has enough baseball instinct for a manager to shift signs with and come through.

TUTORED BY 'CUCH'

"And, now let's take a peek at Rowell. A year ago last spring when he reported at Bradenton, he looked like a ball player but that was about his only asset. He was supposed to be a second baseman. But, he needed a lot to stop ground balls. However, he looked like a hitter, so I sent him back to Hartford with instructions to Fresno Thompson to use him in the outfield. To be perfectly truthful, Rowell looked tough in the outfield.

"Much to my surprise, Rowell began to click as a second baseman this spring, and during the training season Tony Cuccinello told him the proper way to field grounders and he followed his instructions to a "T." He's a natural pivot man on a double play, for unconsciously he gets the left side of his body out of the path of his right arm when he is the pivot on D. P's.

"Rowell is a natural hitter but like many others, he was under the impression that every pitch should be pulled. Now, he is getting so that he can slap outside pitches to left field and only pulled inside balls.

NEED ONLY PITCHING

"Before we started on the last Western trip Rowell came up with a sacroiliac but despite that handicap he's been in there every day since he rejoined the club. It's a tough job playing ball with a sacroiliac, I know that to be a fact for I suffered from the ailment.

"I honestly believe that we have the best infield in the National League and we're not so bad off in the outfield, with Ross, West and Moore. As I said before, give us some pitching and the other National League clubs will have their troubles trying to take our measure."

The Bees, behind the six hit pitching of Bill Posedel and Al Piechota took both ends of their double header from the Pirates yesterday and moved up into sixth position a game and a half behind the Cards.

Tony Marsh, 70 No. 1 Fan, Dies

John "Tony" Marsh, 70, No. 1 big league baseball fan in New England, died last night at his home in the Hotel Lenox.

Marsh made many trips with both Bees and Red Sox, and seldom in the past quarter century did he miss a game at Fenway or the Beehive.

Reputed to be very wealthy, he was able to indulge his fondness for the national game. Through his afternoons at the ball parks and associations with league figures he was closely acquainted with the managers, players and club officials of both circuits.

Tony was quiet and reserved, but always pleasant, and thus over the years he built up a tremendous circle of friends in baseball.

For years he held the first pass given out at each park, after the governor's and mayor's.

BRITAIN GRABS FRENCH NAVY?

BERLIN, June 1 (AP)—German sources expressed belief today that Britain, anticipating France's "dark day," already had "spirited off" much of the French fleet for use in continuing the war on her own.
